WAC 388-892-0110 What are vocational evaluation services? There are three types of vocational evaluation services:

- (1) "Brief" vocational assessment services are:
- (a) Paper and pencil tests, such as psychometric testing, personality testing, preference and interest inventories that identify an individual's work interests and abilities; and
 - (b) Typically completed in one day or less.
 - (2) Comprehensive vocational evaluation services:
- (a) Consist of tests and/or assessment methods designed to measure and document an individual's interests, values, work related-behaviors, aptitudes, skills, physical capacities, learning styles and training needs;
- (b) Are performed using a variety of techniques, i.e., assessment of functional/occupational performance in real or simulated environments, work samples, psychometric testing, preference and interest inventories, personality testing, personal interviews and analysis of prior work experience and transferable skills;
- (c) Identify at least three employment options that the individual could successfully perform either with or without training and long-term employment supports; and
- (d) May be completed in three days or less but may vary, more or less, to accommodate the unique needs and abilities of individuals receiving this service.
 - (3) Situational assessment services are:
- (a) Experiences in which individuals perform work in an actual paid employment setting or other realistic work setting to identify an individual's unique work interests and abilities;
- (b) Conducted over a negotiated period of time depending on the individual's needs.
