INTRODUCTION

The 1988 Legislature adopted SHB 1465 which established a statewide Child Support Schedule. The intention was to insure child support orders would be adequate to meet a child's basic needs and to provide additional support commensurate with the parents' income, resources and standard of living. It was also intended that child support obligations be equitably apportioned between the parents.

Major purposes of this Child Support Schedule are: to promote resolution of child support disputes; to provide a comprehensive, predictable and equitable process; and to apply standards for setting support to the best available economic data. The establishment of a statewide schedule will create uniformity and consistency yet allow flexibility to deal with individual circumstances.

The schedule is based on principles that may additionally assist in determining support. These principles are:

1. Both parents share legal responsibility for the support of their children. The economic responsibility should be divided in proportion to their available income.
2. The subsistence needs of each parent should be taken into account in setting child support, but in virtually no event should the child support obligation be set at zero.

3. Child support must cover a child's basic needs as a first priority, but, to the extent either parent enjoys a higher than subsistence level standard of living, the child is entitled to share the benefit of that improved standard.
4. Each child of a given parent has an equal right to share in that parent's income, subject to factors such as age of the child, income of each parent, income of current spouses, and the presence of other dependents.
5. Each child is entitled to a determination of support without regard to the marital status of the parents at the time of the child's birth or the specific type of support proceeding. Consequently, a schedule should be equally applicable in any proceeding involving child support.
6. The application of a schedule should be sexually non-discriminatory. Specifically, it should be applied on economic principles and without regard to gender.
7. A schedule should not create extraneous negative effects on the major life decisions of either parent. The schedule should avoid creating economic disincentives for remarriage or labor force participation.
8. A schedule should recognize the involvement of both parents in the child's upbringing. It should take into account the financial support provided directly by parents in shared physical custody or extended visitation arrangements, recognizing that even a fifty percent sharing of physical custody does not necessarily obviate the child support obligation. (Williams, Robert G., PhD. Development of Guidelines for Child Support Orders: Final Report, Government Printing Office, March 1987.)

This Child Support Schedule is comprised of (1) Standards for Determining Support, (2) Economic Table, (3) Worksheets, and (4) Instructions. Persons using the Schedule should be sure to use only authorized Worksheet forms, or photocopies thereof. A copy of the Child Support Schedule may be obtained from the Office of the Administrator for the Courts at the following address:

By Law, the Child Support Schedule Commission was continued in existence to review the operation of the schedule and to propose changes to the Legislature. Commission members appreciate the thoughtful contributions of the public and interested organizations during the last year. Comments should continue to be provided in writing to:

STANDARDS FOR THE DETERMINATION OF CHILD SUPPORT AND USE OF THE SCHEDULE

1. The Washington Child Support Schedule shall be applied as follows:
  - a. in each county of the state;
  - b. in judicial and administrative proceedings;
  - c. in all proceedings in which child support is determined or modified;
  - d. for setting temporary and permanent support; and
  - e. for adjusting support orders instead of using a cost-of-living or escalation provision.
2. The parents' obligation for support shall be based on their combined net income, resources and special child rearing costs.
3. Monthly gross income shall include income from any source: salaries, wages, commissions, deferred compensation, bonuses, overtime, dividends, interest, trust income, severance pay, annuities, capital gains, social security benefits, workers compensation, unemployment, disability insurance benefits, gifts and prizes. AFDC, SSI, General Assistance, Food Stamps and spousal maintenance from any relationship shall be disclosed but shall not be included in gross income or be a reason to deviate from the schedule.
4. Allowable deductions from gross income are income taxes, FICA, mandatory pension plan payments, mandatory union/professional dues and spousal maintenance for other relationships. Payment of child support for children of other relationships is a basis for the use of discretion, as described in Standard number 13, but shall not be a deduction from income.

For self-employed persons, normal business expenses and self-employment taxes may be deducted. Justification shall be required for any business expense deduction about which there is disagreement.

Non-recurring overtime/bonus income may be separately identified and allowed as a discretionary deduction from gross income.

5. Tax returns for the preceding three years and current paystubs shall be provided to verify income and deductions. Other sufficient verification shall be required for income and deductions which do not appear on tax returns or paystubs.
6. The basic child support obligation derived from the table shall be allocated between the parents based on each parent's share of the total family net income.
7. Special child rearing expenses such as daycare, tuition, and long-distance transportation costs shall be shared by the parents in the same proportion as the basic child support obligation. These expenses shall be listed as a specific dollar amount.
8. When combined monthly net income is less than $600, a support order not less than $25 per month per child shall be entered.

When combined monthly net income exceeds $7000, child support shall be determined by that amount from the table, together with an additional amount to be determined on an individual basis.

9. Neither parent's child support obligation shall exceed fifty percent (50%) of net earnings unless good cause is shown. Good cause could include possession of substantial wealth, children with daycare expenses, special medical, educational, or psychological needs, and larger families.
10. Basic child support shall be allocated between the parents when a child stays overnight with the parent over twenty-five percent (25%) of the year. When this adjustment is sought, and the parents are not in agreement, the parent seeking the adjustment shall provide evidence to demonstrate the parents' actual past involvement with the child. However, the support payment should not be reduced if there will be insufficient funds available to meet the basic needs of the child in the house receiving the support, or if the child is receiving AFDC payments.
11. The presumptive amount of support shall be determined according to the schedule. Deviations must be explained in writing and supported by evidence. When reasons exist for deviation, discretion shall be exercised in considering the extent to which the factors would affect the support obligation.
12. Reasons for deviation may include the possession of wealth, shared living arrangement, extraordinary debt, extraordinarily high income of a child, a significant disparity in the living costs of the parents due to conditions beyond their control, special needs of disabled children, and tax planning. The transfer payment amount may deviate if tax planning results in greater benefit to the child.
13. When there are children from different relationships, the schedule shall be applied to the mother, father and children of the relationship being considered. The amount of support derived from the schedule may be deviated from based upon all of the circumstances of both households. All income and resources of both parents' households should be disclosed and considered.
14. The schedule shall be advisory and not presumptive for children who have attained the age of 18 and have completed their secondary education.
15. Wage income shall be imputed for parents who are voluntarily unemployed or voluntarily underemployed. A parent will not be deemed underemployed as long as that parent is gainfully employed on a full-time basis. Income shall not be imputed for an unemployable parent.
16. There shall be full disclosure of each parent's household financial information. The worksheets shall be completed under penalty of perjury and filed with the court.
