Health carriers develop rates based on an adjusted community rate that may be varied for geographic area, family size, age, and wellness activities. Wellness activities include an explicit activity consistent with the Department of Health guidelines such as: smoking cessation; injury and accident prevention; reduction of alcohol misuse; appropriate weight reduction; exercise; automobile and motorcycle safety; blood cholesterol reduction; and nutrition education for the purpose of improving enrollee health status and reducing health service costs. There has been a question whether a health carrier can offer a wellness discount based on statutory language that prohibits a health carrier from offering rebates or inducements to purchase health insurance coverage.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

Notwithstanding, a prohibition against offering rebates or inducements to purchase insurance, health carriers are specifically permitted to offer a wellness program that complies with the requirements of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act.
