Background:

The Director of the Washington State Department of Agriculture (WSDA) is authorized to adopt rules that prevent the introduction of spreading of infectious diseases into the state. This includes the authority to adopt rules regarding the inspection and testing of all animals in the state or being imported into the state. The WSDA may charge a time and mileage fee for livestock inspections and investigations of $85 per hour, plus mileage. The WSDA has the authority to raise this fee by rule.

It is unlawful for a person to bring livestock into Washington without first obtaining a certificate of veterinary inspection verifying that the animals meet Washington's health requirements. This requirement does not apply to animals that will be delivered to a feed lot, slaughter plant, or livestock market within 12 hours of importation.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

The WSDA is authorized to adopt rules that require the certificate of veterinarian inspection, health papers, permits, or other transportation documents to provide a physical address and a timeline as to when the animals will be transported directly to that address. Unless exempted by the WSDA, it is unlawful to transfer an animal to a location other than the address designated on the transportation documents.

The ability of the WSDA to charge a mileage and hourly fee for violation inspections is changed to allow the WSDA to collect up to $85 per hour.

EFFECT OF SENATE AMENDMENT(S):

The Senate amendment (1) establishes a fee, up to 40 cents per head of cattle, to be paid to the Washington State Department of Agriculture (WSDA) on all cattle sold, slaughtered, or transported out of the state to be used by the WSDA for the administration of animal disease traceability programs; (2) creates the animal disease traceability advisory committee to advise the WSDA; (3) requires reports and audits by the WSDA; and (4) creates a new account within the agricultural local fund.
