- preparing and certifying copies;
- administering an oath or taking an affidavit;
- recording plats; and
- searching records.

Current statute sets the fee for searching records at $8 per hour.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

House Bill 2416 authorizes county auditors to establish the actual cost of searching records and conspicuously post this cost. Employee salary and benefit costs may be included in the actual cost for searching records, but general and administrative overhead costs may not be included in the actual cost. If the auditor does not determine the actual per hour cost for searching records, the fee remains set at $8 as is currently defined in statute.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) By statute, county auditors are allowed to charge $8 per hour, but this rate has not been adjusted since 1985. The actual hourly cost of searching records is substantially higher, and ranges from $21-$46 per hour, with an average cost of $31 per hour. When county employees are asked to conduct searches for private parties, they are essentially using public funds to fulfill a private, and often commercial request. This bill would change the amount charged to reflect the actual cost and allow local governments to recover the costs of providing this service to private and commercial customers.

(Opposed) None.

Persons Testifying: Representative Takko, prime sponsor; Julie Anderson, Washington State Association of County Auditors; and Monty Cobb, Washington Association of County Officials.
