Hearing Date: 2/19/14

Staff: Jim Morishima (786-7191).

Background:

In order to sell insurance to Washington residents, a carrier must be licensed by the state and comply with a variety of requirements, such as rate review, modified community rating, and mandated benefits. Under the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA), states are authorized to enter into compacts allowing carriers to sell health insurance across state lines.

Under the PPACA, a carrier selling health insurance across state lines must comply with insurance regulations in the state where the policy is issued, except:

- The carrier would be subject to the following regulations of the state where the consumer resides: market conduct, unfair trade practices, network adequacy, and consumer protection, including addressing disputes in the performance of the contract.
- The carrier would either: (a) be licensed in each state in which it offers a plan; or (b) submit to the jurisdiction of the state in which the consumer resides.
- The carrier must clearly notify consumers that it may not be subject to all of the laws and regulations of the state in which the consumer resides.

To enter into a compact with another state, a state must first enact a law that authorizes such agreements. All compacts are subject to approval of the federal Department of Health and Human Services, which must approve all compacts that:

- cover the essential health benefits;
- will provide coverage and cost sharing protections against excessive out-of-pocket spending comparable to those in the PPACA;
- will provide coverage to at least a comparable number of residents as the provisions of the PPACA;
- will not increase the federal deficit; and
- will not weaken state laws regarding market conduct, unfair trade practices, network adequacy, and consumer protection.

No compact may be effective prior to January 1, 2016.

Summary of Bill:

Beginning July 1, 2015, the Insurance Commissioner (Commissioner) is authorized to contract with other states to establish and operate a consortium governing the sale of "qualifying reciprocal plans" by "qualifying reciprocal insurers" in the small group market. A qualifying reciprocal plan is an out-of-state insurance plan that:

- contains an essential health benefits package that is substantially equal to the essential health benefit benchmark plan designated in Washington and provides minimum essential coverage under the PPACA;
- has been approved by a state regulator for a state with which the Commissioner has a reciprocity agreement;
- is not a health savings account or a qualified high deductible health plan; and
- complies with state market rules for individual and small group plans offered inside and outside the Washington's health benefit exchange.

A "qualifying reciprocal insurer" is an out-of-state insurer that:

- meets the definition of "issuer" in the PPACA;
- is authorized in a state that is a member of the consortium;
- proposes to sell only a qualifying reciprocal plan in Washington;
- has and maintains total adjusted capital that is greater than three times its authorized control level risk-based capital; and
- complies with state laws applicable to issuers in Washington to the extent required by the reciprocity agreement.

A qualifying reciprocal insurer and its qualifying reciprocal plan are exempt from certain state insurance requirements, including mandates that are not a part of the qualifying reciprocal plan, requirements relating to health plans offered to small businesses, and requirements relating to certificates of authority. A qualifying reciprocal plan must use a premium rate schedule approved by its state of issue and apply the standards for calculating premiums required by the federal government for out-of-state coverage. The premium rate schedule may not be adjusted more than once a year. Qualifying reciprocal plans are limited to the small group market.

Qualifying reciprocal plans must be filed with the Commissioner, who must approve the plan if it meets the definition of a qualifying reciprocal plan. When determining whether the qualifying reciprocal plan contains an essential health benefits package that is substantially equal to Washington's essential health benefit benchmark plan, the Commissioner must utilize the same standards and procedures applicable to domestic carriers and may not accept the determination from a consortium state.

Qualifying reciprocal plans must contain a declaration in bold face type at the beginning of the document:

The benefits in this policy may not include each of the benefits required by the state of Washington. (Name of state) initially approved this policy for sale, and the benefit requirements of that state are reflected in the policy. The rates applied to calculate premiums were not approved by the state of Washington, but by (name of state). Those requirements may be different from the requirements for policies approved by Washington. Please consult your insurance agent or insurer to determine which health benefits are covered under the policy.

The qualifying reciprocal plan (or an agent/broker) must also provide applicants with a written side-by-side comparison of the health benefits under the plan, including differences in definition of each benefit between Washington law and the law of the approving state, whether the benefit is required under Washington law, and the difference in the premium rate due to the difference in state laws. A qualifying reciprocal insurer offering a qualifying reciprocal plan must offer the plan through agents/brokers licensed in Washington. The qualifying reciprocal insurer may electronically market plans.

The Commissioner may not enter into a reciprocity agreement until he or she has identified at least five states whose regulatory requirements meet or exceed Washington's standards for network adequacy, consumer protection, market requirements, and claims adjudication/processing. The reciprocity consortium may begin with an agreement with just one state. Until at least five states have joined, a state may not join the consortium if it authorizes two or more carriers domiciled in Washington to offer health plans.

The Commissioner may enter into separate agreements or one uniform agreement. A reciprocity agreement must establish rules for the management of consumer questions and complaints related to health benefit plans approved by one member state but sold in another. The agreement must also establish a mechanism for the payment of premium tax and collection of any reinsurance or risk adjustment assessments that would be applicable in Washington.

Reciprocity states must agree to provide the Commissioner with a list of approved qualifying reciprocal plans and their premium rate schedules as they are approved. The reciprocity states must notify the Commissioner if a plan is disapproved or otherwise removed from the market.

Insurers must inform consortium states in writing of their intent to offer a qualifying reciprocal plan at least 60 days prior to the first date of offer. Consortium states may establish their own requirements for notification and offer.

A qualifying reciprocal plan may be offered through Washington's health benefit exchange if it meets the exchange's certification requirements and follows state market rules applicable to individual and small group plans.

By January 1, 2015, the Commissioner must provide the Legislature with a list of states that have been identified and include a plan for entering into a reciprocity agreement with at least one state. Beginning in 2016 the Commissioner must report to the Legislature by December 1 of each year on the reciprocity consortium's formation, membership, the number of plans offered in Washington through the consortium, the effect on the marketplace in Washington, and recommendations on whether continuing reciprocity sales serves the public health and welfare. These reporting requirements are null and void if specific funding is not provided by June 30, 2014, in the omnibus appropriations act.

The Commissioner may enter into one or more personal service contracts to provide the services necessary to accomplish his or her responsibilities with respect to the consortium.
