

SB 5009 - DIGEST

Establishes the preventing economic disruption act.

Authorizes the prosecuting attorney to file a special allegation when sufficient evidence exists to show that an accused or accomplice committed an offense to cause an economic disruption.

Requires the court, in a criminal case in which there has been a special allegation and the accused has been convicted of the underlying crime, to make a finding of fact before sentencing whether the person committed the offense to cause an economic disruption.