Many of these projects are financed by the issuance of state general obligation bonds.

In the intervening (even-numbered) years, the Legislature enacts a supplemental capital budget that revises existing appropriations and authorizes additional capital projects.

Summary of Bill: The 1995-97 biennial capital budget is amended to reduce state bond appropriations to several projects by $5.6 million. Appropriations from other fund sources are increased by $42 million. The Department of General Administration, State Board of Community and Technical Colleges, and Washington State Patrol are authorized to enter into financial contracts to acquire real property.
