HOUSE COMMITTEE ON CORRECTIONS

Majority Report: Do pass. Signed by 11 members: Representatives Ballasiotes, Chairman; Blanton, Vice Chairman; Sherstad, Vice Chairman; Quall, Ranking Minority Member; Tokuda, Assistant Ranking Minority Member; Cole; Dickerson; Koster; Radcliff; K. Schmidt and Schoesler.

Background: Under the Sentencing Reform Act (SRA), an offender who violates a condition of his or her sentence may receive additional punishment. A court hearing is held to address the violation and the proper punishment. The offender can be confined for up to 60 days for each violation. The court can also (a) convert a term of partial confinement to total confinement, (b) convert community service hours to total or partial confinement, or (c) convert certain monetary obligations to community service hours.

Because court calendars are often overcrowded, the Department of Corrections has experienced difficulty in having sanctions imposed in a timely manner.

Summary of Bill: When an offender violates a sentence condition, the Department of Corrections may administratively impose sanctions by entering into a stipulated agreement with the offender.

Available sanctions under these agreements are: work release, home detention with electronic monitoring, work crew, community service, inpatient treatment, daily reporting, curfew, education or counseling, supervision through electronic monitoring, jail time, and other community sanctions.

The department must submit the agreement within three days to the judge and local prosecuting attorney. If the judge is not satisfied with the agreement, the judge has 15 days to schedule a hearing to address the violation and the proper penalty. If the judge holds a hearing, the offender may withdraw from the agreement.

If the offender violates the stipulated agreement, the court may punish both the original violation and the violation of the agreement.

The new sanctions would also be available to the judge to punish violations that are not resolved through a stipulated agreement.
