Background:

The Legislature sets by statute the number of superior court judges in each county. Periodically, the Office of the Administrator for the Courts conducts a weighted caseload study to determine the need for additional judges in the various counties.

Retirement benefits and one-half of the salary and other employee benefits of a superior court judge are paid by the state. The other half of the judge's salary and all other costs associated with the judicial position, such as capital and support staff costs, are borne by the county.

New superior court positions are filled by gubernatorial appointment. The appointed judge must then stand for election at the next general election.

Summary of Bill:

The number of superior court judges in Okanagan County is increased from one to two. The additional position is conditioned upon the approval of Okanagan County and its agreement to pay the expenses associated with both existing and new positions as provided by state law or the state constitution.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Requested on February 11, 1999.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: (Judiciary) The superior court judge in Okanagan County is currently handling the workload of over two and one-half judges.

(Appropriations) The current workload in Okanagan is the equivalent of that of two and a half judges. Currently, there is only one superior court judge in the county.

Testimony Against: (Judiciary) None.

(Appropriations) None.

Testified: (Judiciary) Chuck Foster (for Judge Jack Barnhard of the Okanagan County Superior Court), Board for Judicial Administration.

(Appropriations) Chuck Foster, Board for Judicial Administration.
