Background:

The Washington State Housing Finance Commission was created in 1983, with the goal to stimulate the production of affordable single and multifamily housing, and special needs housing. The commission accomplishes this through the (1) issuance of tax-exempt private activity and nonprofit revenue bonds, and taxable revenue bonds; (2) administration of the federal Low-Income Housing Tax Credit Program; and (3) administration of other programs authorized under federal and state law.

When the commission was established, the Legislature imposed several requirements that included the creation of a general plan of housing finance objectives, that required periodic updates, and the adoption of certain rules of procedure. Currently, the total amount of the commission's statutory outstanding debt may not exceed $2 billion at any time.

Summary of Bill:

The Washington State Housing Finance Commission statutes are revised to (i) remove obsolete dates that reference initial planning and rule-making requirements and (ii) increase the commission's statutory outstanding debt limit from $2 billion to $3 billion.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: (Economic Development, Housing & Trade) The commission is near its statutory debt limit. Increasing the debt limit allows the commission to continue bringing low-cost financing for affordable housing into the state. The dates regarding the housing finance objectives and rule-making are leftovers from when the commission was created in 1983. This would just remove obsolete language.

(Capital Budget) The Housing Finance Commission was created to finance affordable housing and nonprofit facilities without using state money or lending the credit of the state. The commission has $1.7 billion in outstanding debt and is issuing new debt at a rate of $150 million per year. At this rate the current $2 billion debt limit will be reached by the summer of 2001. The commission's debt limit, which is not state debt, needs to be increased to prevent the commission from having to stop financing single family and multifamily affordable housing.

Testimony Against: (Economic Development, Housing & Trade) None.

(Capital Budget) None.
