Within this 10 percent limitation, a first class city with a population in excess of 150,000 (Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane), cannot perform by day labor a public works project in excess of $50,000 if more than a single craft or trade is involved, or a public works project in excess of $25,000 if only a single craft or trade is involved or the public works project is street signalization or street lighting. For a first class city with a population below 150,000 the parallel bid limits are $35,000 and $20,000. Bid limits for a second class city, town, or code city are $30,000 and $20,000, respectively.

Appropriation: None.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: This will allow cities to use their employees more efficiently. The new limits in July will only reflect inflation since the last change in 1987.

Testimony Against: Private contractors depend on this work and we do it better, for less cost.
