SENATE COMMITTEE ON LABOR, COMMERCE & FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

Majority Report: That Substitute Senate Bill No. 6660 be substituted therefor, and the substitute bill do pass.

Signed by Senators Prentice, Chair; Keiser, Vice Chair; Benton, Fairley, Franklin, Gardner, Honeyford, Rasmussen, Regala, West and Winsley.

Staff: Matthew Adams (786-7784)

Background: Current law exempts certain personal information from public disclosure. For example, the Legislature has found that employees have a right to privacy with respect to their personal information in files maintained by any public agency.

In Washington, there is growing concern about the privacy of personal information. Recent events have included an individual who posted, on his website, maps to police officers' homes, together with home email addresses, and social security numbers.

Summary of Substitute Bill: Provisions are added to protect personal information about police officers and their families. Information that is necessary for the effective operation of a law enforcement agency is exempt from public inspection and copying when the information is personal to officers and their families, or when the information could easily lead to the discovery of personal information.

Protected information includes a police officer's residential address and telephone number, public employment record, property and tax records, and certain financial information. Public salaries are not exempt from disclosure.

Substitute Bill Compared to Original Bill: The substitute bill makes several technical changes. The exemption created for personal information about police officers and their families is tied to the current exemption for personal information about public employees rather than the exemption for information compiled by law enforcement agencies.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: There is no legitimate public interest in personal information about police officers and their families. With the proliferation of the internet and various safety concerns, personal information must be protected from public disclosure.

Testimony Against: Law enforcement officers are not a different class of society. This bill needs clarification because it is overly broad and commercially disadvantages an officer's ability to obtain credit.
