

HB 3186 - DIGEST

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Provides that, the court, on its own motion or upon the motion of any party, whether or not the respondent has violated any terms of the order of disposition, may modify the order of disposition for good cause shown, so long as the modification does not result in any increased sanction or penalty. In determining whether good cause exists, the court shall consider the best interests of the respondent and the community.
