Background: Under current law, intermediate drivers license (IDL) holders have several restrictions placed upon them:

- During the first six months of holding the IDL (or until they are 18, whichever is first), IDL holders may not drive a vehicle carrying any passengers under the age of 20 unless those passengers are immediate family.
- After the initial six-month period, IDL holders may not drive any vehicle carrying more than three people under age 20.
- During the first 12 months of holding the IDL, IDL holders may not drive between 1:00 a.m. and 5:00 a.m. unless they are accompanied by a parent, guardian, or licensed driver who is at least 25 years old.

After 12 months of holding the IDL, the above restrictions are lifted if the ID holder:

- did not violate any of the above restrictions;
- was not found to have committed a traffic offense; and
- was not involved in an auto accident.
