SENATE COMMITTEE ON HEALTH CARE

Staff: Kathleen Buchli (786-7488)

Background: The long-term care ombuds must identify, investigate, and resolve complaints made by or on behalf of residents of long-term care facilities such as nursing homes, adult family homes, and assisted living facilities. The long-term care ombuds must also provide information as appropriate to residents, resident representatives, and others regarding the rights of residents.

Residents of long-term care facilities may request electronic monitoring of their sleeping room. In order to request electronic monitoring, the resident must not be violating the privacy of another, must have identified a threat to the resident's health, safety, or personal property, and have agreed upon a specific duration with the long-term care facility for electronic monitoring.
