Background: Property Tax. All real and personal property in the state is subject to property tax each year based on its value, unless specific exemption is provided by law. There are numerous exemptions from property tax established either by statute or constitutionally. The largest exemption is for intangible property. Other exemptions include churches, nonprofit hospitals, private schools and colleges, agricultural products, and affordable housing.

Property Tax Exemption for Low-Income Housing Development. Property owned by a nonprofit for the purposes of developing residences for low-income households is exempt from state and local property taxes for a limited term. As long as the property remains held for the purpose of low-income housing development, the exemption lasts for seven consecutive tax years or until the nonprofit transfers title to the property. Should the nonprofit anticipate it will be unable to sell the property within the seven-year term, the nonprofit may file for a three-year extension by filing a notice of extension with the Department of Revenue (DOR) and paying a filing fee.

The property is disqualified from the exemption if:

- the nonprofit fails to transfer title to the property to a low-income household within the applicable exemption period; or
- the property is converted to a use other than low-income housing development.

If disqualified, an additional tax is due that is equal to all taxes that would have been due within the applicable exemption period, plus interest. This additional tax is considered a lien on the property.

DOR may not accept applications for the exemption after December 31, 2027. The exemption may not be applied to taxes due in 2037 and thereafter.

Summary of Bill: The property tax exemption for real property owned by a nonprofit entity for the purpose of developing real property to be sold to low-income households is expanded to include real property owned and developed by a qualified cooperative association. Real property intended to be sold to a separate nonprofit or a limited equity cooperative housing corporation also qualifies for the state and local property tax exemption.

The exemption does not expire when the nonprofit owner transfers the property to another nonprofit or qualified cooperative association. The definition of residence is expanded to include shares in a limited equity cooperative housing corporation. A qualified cooperative association must be a cooperative association that owns the real property for which an exemption is sought and following the completion of the development or redevelopment of the exempted real property at least 60 percent of the residences are owned by low-income households, and 80 percent or more of the square footage of any improvements to the real property are exclusively used or available for use by the owners of the residences.

The property exemption applies to taxes levied for collection beginning in 2020.

The act is excluded from the tax preference performance statement and automatic 10-year expiration.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Creates Committee/Commission/Task Force that includes Legislative members: No.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony: PRO: This bill will help prevent home displacement and support shared goals around affordable housing, supporting small businesses, and other community needs. This bill clarifies that affordable housing cooperatives are included under this existing, temporary property tax exemption. This bill will provide another option for affordable homeownership in Washington.

Persons Testifying: PRO: Matt Ojala, Forterra.
