Background: The Department of Health licenses and regulates acute care and psychiatric health hospitals. Hospitals are required to report to state agencies on a variety of items including adverse events, unprofessional conduct, events that affect the operation and maintenance of the facility, certain communicable diseases, healthcare associated infections, as well as financial, discharge, and admission data.

Summary of Bill (First Substitute): By November 1, 2022, the Washington State Institute for Public Policy must conduct a comprehensive review of all state and federal data or information reporting obligations on acute care and psychiatric hospitals in Washington State and submit a report with its finding to the Department of Health, and the appropriate committees of the Legislature. At a minimum, the report must:

- identify all state and federal data or information reporting requirements for hospitals and determine if any of the requirements are duplicative;
- identify ways to streamline hospital data and information reporting requirements;
- determine if state reporting requirements are public; and
- identify state data or information reporting requirements that should be subject to further review.
