EFFECT: Allows preassignment training to be approved instead of administered by department certified trainers. Provides that a certificate of training may be accepted by any private security company as conclusive evidence of completion of training instead of requiring a private security company to accept it as conclusive evidence. The monetary penalties that may be assessed by the Department of Licensing for certain record keeping violations are eliminated and the authority to assess monetary penalties as specified in the business and professions statute is adopted by reference. The effective date of the act is delayed to July 1, 2007.
