Summary of Amended Bill:

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

The Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs (WASPC) must establish a workgroup to evaluate the problem of gang-related crime in Washington. The workgroup must include one member from each of the two largest caucuses in the House of Representatives, appointed by the Speaker of the House; one member from each of the two largest caucuses in the Senate, appointed by the President of the Senate; and representatives from the following groups, appointed jointly by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate: the Office of the Attorney General, local law enforcement, prosecutors and municipal attorneys, criminal defense attorneys, court administrators, prison or detention administrators and probation officers, and experts in gang or delinquency prevention.

The workgroup must evaluate and make recommendations regarding additional legislative measures to combat gang-related crime, the creation of a statewide gang information database, possible reforms to the juvenile justice system for gang-related juvenile offenses, best practices for prevention and intervention of youth gang membership, and the adoption of legislation authorizing a civil anti-gang injunction. The WASPC must report back to the Legislature on its findings and recommendations on or before January 1, 2008.

Amended Bill Compared to Substitute Bill:

The amended bill requires the WASPC to convene the workgroup, instead of the Office of the Attorney General. The amended bill adds a representative from the Office of the Attorney General to the workgroup. The amended bill requires non-legislative members of the workgroup to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) This bill will give a statewide comprehensive look at a problem that is not going away. Criminal gang activity is truly a problem that affects communities throughout the state, in both urban and rural areas. Local police departments bear the brunt of dealing with criminal gang activity; at the same time that gang activity is increasing, funding for local law enforcement is decreasing. Local police departments need the tools to deal with the problem before it gets worse. This problem needs to be dealt with in a comprehensive manner through increased criminal penalties, civil injunctions, and interventions for juveniles. Gang violence can be difficult to prosecute because of issues of self-defense and because juries often cannot be informed that a defendant is a gang member. Graffiti is the most visible gang-related crime; it affects local businesses and the economy and leads to an increase in gang-related crime. Local governments have spent a great deal of money to combat graffiti and some local governments have started to place the burden of cleaning graffiti on property owners. Some graffiti, such as acid etching, can be almost impossible to remove. There is a strong correlation between graffiti and drug trafficking. Community members have started to form neighborhood groups to help address the issue of gang-related crime.

(Opposed) None.
