SENATE COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION

Staff: Bryon Moore (786-7726)

Background: Current law allows exemptions from Washington State vehicle registration requirements for federally recognized tribal government license plates under certain conditions. Current law does not specifically address tribal license plates issued to an individual tribal member for the member's personal vehicle.

According to the Department of Licensing, there are at least two tribes currently providing tribal issued license plates to individual tribal members for the member's personal vehicle. In this situation, DOL is involved in providing a specific plate configuration recommendation—such as SPN for Spokane. The tribes then work directly with Department of Corrections'

Correctional Industries Program to design and produce these plates. DOL does not currently collect any vehicle or owner information for these plates.

Under federal law, a state is generally preempted from imposing a tax on tribes or tribal members on tribal lands. As a result, there are currently several exemptions from some vehicle related taxes and fees. Some of these exemptions for tribal members residing on tribal lands include:

- sales and use taxes on vehicle purchases;
- transportation benefit district vehicle fees; and
- a motor vehicle excise tax imposed by a Regional Transit Authority.

Summary of Bill: The Governor is given authority to enter into compacts with federally recognized Indian tribes for licensing and registering tribal government and tribal member-owned vehicles with tribal license plates issued by DOL. The Governor may delegate the power to negotiate these compacts to DOL.

Each compact entered must contain the following:

- allowing the design of a tribal license plate to be determined by the compacting tribe, except the design must be readable by toll collection facilities and configured in a manner allowing for electronic distribution through state and national law enforcement databases;
- requiring tribal license plate recipients to pay all applicable taxes, fees, and vehicle tolls, except the compacting tribe may pay these expenses on behalf of its enrolled members;
- limiting the eligibility for a tribal license plate to tribal governments and enrolled members of the compacting tribe who reside in the state;
- requiring information regarding a vehicle that has been issued a tribal license plate, including vehicle description and ownership information be maintained in the DOL's recordkeeping systems;
- addressing DOL's administrative costs for issuing tribal license plates and maintaining information regarding vehicles that have been issued tribal license plates; and
- dealing with information sharing between DOL and the compacting tribe, the process for applying for and receiving tribal license plates; and dispute resolution.

Creates Committee/Commission/Task Force that includes Legislative members: No.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony: PRO: This bill will allow opportunities to express tribal pride and is beyond just providing a special license plate. While supportive of the overall concept, there is a need to deal with revenue equity and the need to support road maintenance and preservation needs on tribal lands. This bill is a continuation of a partnership between the tribes and the state. This bill recognizes the inherent nature of tribal sovereignty and at the same time allows information sharing for law enforcement purposes. The legislation was the result of a collaborative effort and it creates a voluntary compact process.
