Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) Insulin is the most expensive drug on the market, so individuals that depend on insulin often compromise on groceries and other necessities to afford their prescription. People are dying because of the cost of insulin, and BIPOC individuals and seniors are among the most impacted.

The Total Cost of Insulin Work Group (Work Group) has the potential to be a life-saving tool. The government can take a role in controlling the cost of insulin by negotiating drug prices and implementing unique programs. For the Work Group to be successful, it must be nimble and efficient enough to meet its deadlines, and it must be representative of the community that consumes insulin. Currently, there are far too many representatives for insurers and health carriers, and too few representatives for consumers of insulin. Amendments will be introduced to reduce the overall number of people in the Work Group, and to ensure that there is a member of the public in the Work Group.

The Work Group has been delayed two years due to the COVID-19 pandemic, which is two more years in which people have struggled to pay for insulin. The Work Group is now prepared to get started.

(Opposed) None.
