introduction of invasive species throughout the state. Members of the Council include representatives from federal, state, local, and tribal governments, the private sector, and other nongovernment interests. Staff support for the Council is provided through the Recreation and Conservation Office.

The 2006 legislation also created the Invasive Species Council Account (Account), which may receive appropriations, gifts, grants, and donations. Account funds may only be used to carry out the purposes of the Council.

The Legislature established an initial December 31, 2011, expiration date for the Council. In 2011, and again in 2016, the Legislature reauthorized the Council and associated Account. The Council and associated Account expire on June 30, 2022.

Summary of Bill:

The expiration date of the Washington State Invasive Species Council and Invasive Species Council Account is extended to June 30, 2032.

---

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) Invasive species could cause a damaging $1.3 billion impact to Washington's economy. The Invasive Species Council (Council) serves an important role in helping various agencies and organizations coordinate to prevent the spread of invasive species such as zebra and quagga mussels, feral swine, and "murder hornets" at a minimal cost to the state. Zebra mussels could cause immense damage to pipes and dams. The recent hornet outbreaks in Whatcom County have caused damage in the agricultural industry. The Council takes the lead on multi-jurisdictional projects, including the successful invasive mussel exercise in Lake Roosevelt. Washington has been a model of invasive species prevention and control in the region. If invasive mussels took hold, they would compete for food with native aquatic species, impacting endangered salmon, and invasive hornets destroy honeybee nests.

(Opposed) None.

Persons Testifying: Senator Honeyford, prime sponsor; Justin Bush, Washington Recreation and Conservation Office, Invasive Species Council; Shaun Seaman, Chelan County Public Utility District; and Raelene Gold, League of Women Voters of Washington.

Persons Signed In To Testify But Not Testifying: None.
