

WAC 388-891A-0510 After DVR receives my signed application, how long does it take to make an eligibility determination? (1) DVR will make an eligibility determination as soon as enough information is available, but no longer than sixty days after receiving your completed application materials.

(2) If DVR does not have enough information to determine your eligibility within sixty days, you and a DVR counselor must agree to:

(a) Extend the eligibility period to collect additional information or records because exceptional and unforeseen circumstances prevented the collection of information necessary to make an eligibility determination; or

(b) Conduct a trial work experience, if a DVR counselor is not certain whether VR services will enable you to benefit in terms of an employment outcome because of the severity of your disability.
