

WAC 246-12-640 Training quality. Minimum standards for training quality:

(1) For the purpose of continuing improvement, trainees shall be offered an evaluation assessing training quality and participant learning. Completed evaluations will be returned to the trainer or publisher of the training.

(2) Trainers and training developers must have demonstrated knowledge and experience related to suicide prevention and:

(a) An active license to practice as a health care professional; or

(b) A bachelor's degree or higher in public health, social science, education or a related field from an accredited college or university; or

(c) At least three years of experience delivering training in suicide prevention.

(3) Data referenced in the training must be current within four years, and research referenced in the training must be based on current empirical research and known best practices.

[Statutory Authority: RCW 43.70.442. WSR 16-14-048, § 246-12-640, filed 6/29/16, effective 6/30/16.]