HOUSE COMMITTEE ON COMMERCE & LABOR

Majority Report: That Substitute House Bill No. 1207 be substituted therefor, and the substitute bill do pass.
Signed by 11 members: Representatives Heavey, Chair; Cole, Vice Chair; Fuhrman, Ranking Minority Member; Lisk, Assistant Ranking Minority Member; Franklin; Jones; R. King; O'Brien; Prentice; Vance; and Wilson.

Staff: Chris Cordes (786-7117).

Background: All persons or firms engaging in the contracting business in Washington are required to register with the Department of Labor and Industries. Contractors may register as general contractors or specialty contractors. There is no requirement that the contractor indicate whether he or she will perform residential construction.

The contractor registration law does not require an examination or other indicator of performance from the contractor before registration is issued.

Summary of Bill: Persons registering with the Department of Labor and Industries as contractors for the first time, or after a lapse of two years or more, may be required to attend an informational seminar on the laws and practices applicable to the business of contracting in Washington. Failure to attend the seminar within six months is grounds for revocation of a contractor's registration.

Fiscal Note: Requested March 4, 1991.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: Adding a requirement that contractors identify whether they will perform residential construction is intended to help the Department of Labor and Industries establish a homeowner consumer protection program. Many complaints received by the department involve residential construction. There are many compliance issues that could be addressed by requiring new contractors to attend training seminars.

Testimony Against: Although the requirement for training may be helpful in providing consumer protection, the requirement for identifying residential construction contractors will not work. Many contractors change their business frequently. It is not clear what the impact will be on a contractor's registration if the contractor changes to residential construction after registering.

Witnesses: Mark Tullis (in favor); Doug Bohlke, Contractors Bonding and Insurance Company/Sheet Metal Contractors (in favor of substitute bill); Joe Brewer, Department of Labor and Industries (in favor); and Gene Krause, Independent Business Association (opposed to original bill).
