A community municipal corporation exists for five years, but may be continued for successive five-year periods, if authorized by the voters of the community municipal corporation.

A community municipal corporation has an elected five-member community council that, within 60 days of adoption, may disapprove the following actions taken by the city or town council relating to the community municipal corporation:

- o A comprehensive plan;
- o A zoning ordinance;
- o A conditional use permit, special exception or variance;
- o A subdivision ordinance;
- o A subdivision plat; and
- o A planned unit development.

Community municipal corporations have been created in Bellevue, Kirkland, and Des Moines, each of which are code cities.
