Background: Timber harvest levels, particularly on federal lands, are expected to decrease significantly. This will adversely impact the State generally and timber communities specifically.

The estimated job losses resulting from the reduced harvest level vary significantly. The Governor's Office estimates the direct and indirect job losses at 20,000; the House Timber Task Force estimated the job losses at 26,000.

Training and retraining programs, most of which are administered by the state Department of Employment Security and funded through the federal Job Training Partnership Act, can benefit timber-dependent communities. An example of this is job dislocation assistance.

Summary of Bill: The Natural Resource Worker Project is established to provide jobs for dislocated timber workers. The project is administered by the state Employment Security Department. The Department of Personnel shall approve the project.

The project is designed to establish training and employment opportunities for dislocated timber workers to obtain entry level jobs in the state departments of Ecology, Fisheries, Natural Resources, Wildlife, and the state Parks and Recreation Commission. The project is contingent upon the availability of federal funding, or an appropriation from the state general fund.

The agencies participating in the project shall provide an annual report to the state Legislature.

Fiscal Note: Requested March 10, 1991.

Effective Date: The bill contains an emergency clause and takes effect July 15, 1991.

Testimony For: (Trade & Economic Development) The bill redresses the lack of training and employment opportunities for dislocated timber workers in Skagit and northern Snohomish counties.

Testimony For: (Appropriations) The legislation will provide a pool of trained entry-level employees for natural resource agency employment. Additional workers in these fields are necessary due to flood damage and needed trail construction and restoration in the Mt. Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest. The program is a good opportunity to assist dislocated workers while meeting these needs.

Testimony Against: (Trade & Economic Development) Training should be for employment in jobs which guarantee adequate wages to support a family, rather than entry level jobs.

Testimony Against: (Appropriations) None.

Witnesses: (Trade & Economic Development) Rep. Mary Margaret Haugen, Prime sponsor; Rep. Harriet Spanel, sponsor; Ted W. Anderson, Forest Families Action Committee Task Force (in favor of bill); Theresa Deschene, Washington Workers Resource Committee (supports bill, but opposed to entry level nature of job preparation); Karlene Collins, Washington Workers Resource Committee (supports bill, but favors training for family wage jobs and more community involvement); Robin Sherman, Economic Development Association of Skagit County (in favor of bill); Bert Williamson, Skagit Valley College (in favor of bill); Don Wick, Economic Development Association of Skagit County (in favor of bill); Jim Pissot, National Audubon Society (in favor of bill); Roger Reidel, Washington State Labor Council (supports bill's intent, but against bill without provisions for establishing family wage jobs); Susan Markey, Washington Department of Fisheries (in favor of bill); Pam Madson, Washington Department of Wildlife (in favor of bill); Tim Strege, Job Training Executives of Washington (in favor of bill); and Larry Malo, Employment Security Department (supports bill, but concerned that: federal funding cannot be guaranteed for five years; spouses will not be eligible for federal funding of education and training; and restrictions on federal funds do not allow contracting with Economic Development Association of Skagit County).

Witnesses: (Appropriations) Representative Mary Margaret Haugen (prime sponsor); and Susan Markey, Department of Fisheries (in support).
