Background:

Washington's Residential Landlord-Tenant Act (RLTA) governs the relationship between the renter of residential property (tenant) and the property owner or property owner's agent (landlord). The RLTA outlines the specific duties of the landlord and tenant and specifies their rights and remedies.

The Manufactured/Mobile Home Landlord-Tenant Act (MMHLTA) governs the relationship between the owners of mobile home parks (landlords) and owners of the manufactured and mobile homes (tenants) who lease space in a mobile home park. A "mobile home park" or "manufactured home community" is real property rented to others for the placement of two or more mobile homes, manufactured homes, or park models. As with the RLTA, the MMHLTA specifies the rights, duties and remedies of landlords and tenants in this rental relationship.

Both the RLTA and MMHLTA allow a landlord to require a tenant to pay a deposit as security for performance of the tenant's obligations in a lease or rental agreement. The landlord must promptly deposit the tenant's security deposit in a trust account maintained by the landlord in a bank, savings and loan association, mutual savings bank, or licensed escrow agent located in Washington.

Summary of Amended Bill:

A landlord may hold a tenant's security deposit in a trust account maintained at a credit union located in Washington. In the RLTA and the MMHLTA statutes governing tenant security deposits, the list of financial institutions is replaced with a reference to the statutory "financial institution" definition. This definition includes state and national banks and trust companies, state and federal savings and loan associations, and state and federal credit unions.
