Background: The Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) currently operates five residential habilitation centers (RHCs). These state-operated residential facilities provide 24-hour supervised care for individuals with developmental disabilities. In addition the facilities provide habilitation training and medical/nursing services for residents, offer short-term stays for eligible clients, and in some instances offer subsidized professional and recreational facilities and services to the community.

RHC residents are individuals with developmental disabilities who are assessed as needing 24-hour support in a structured residential facility. All Washington RHC's are either an Intermediate Care Facilities for the Mentally Retarded, a skilled nursing facility, or both.

The five RHCs are Lakeland Village located in Spokane County; Rainier school located in Pierce County; Yakima Valley School located in Yakima County; Fircrest School located in
