Background:

The Open Space Taxation Act allows for current use valuations of qualifying agricultural land, which includes:

- parcels 20 acres and larger devoted primarily to agricultural production;
- parcels five to 20 acres that generate gross income from the sale of farm products $200 or more per acre in three of each five-year period; or
- parcels that are less than five acres that generate a gross income of at least $1,500 per year in three of each five-year period.

A parcel or contiguous parcels classified as farm and agricultural land in the current use program must be 20 acres or more to receive a reduction in the taxable value of the home site. The housing or residence must be on or contiguous to the current use parcel(s) and integral to the use of the classified land for agricultural purposes. For parcels under 20 acres, the land where the housing is situated is valued at fair market value, while the remainder of the parcel is valued at current use.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

The home-site of agricultural and farm lands at least five acres up to 20 acres is eligible for current use valuation as long as the land underlying the residential structure is contiguous or on and integral to the farming operation of the current use classified agricultural and farm land. Farms less than five acres may also be eligible for current use valuation on the home-site, but a gross income of $10,000 in three of the last five years before application is required in addition to the home-site being contiguous or on and integral to the farming operation.

The Department of Revenue must develop guidance, in consultation with stakeholders, on how the eligibility requirements for current use valuation to the home-site that is contiguous or on and integral to current use classified agricultural lands will be interpreted.

Substitute Bill Compared to Original Bill:

The substitute bill:

- extends eligibility for current use valuation to the land underlying the residential structure that is contiguous or on and integral to current use classified agricultural land at least five acres up to 20 acres;
- requires current use classified agricultural land less than five acres to also meet a gross income requirement of $10,000 in three of the last five years before application in order to be eligible for current use valuation to the land underlying the residential structure;
- removes the exclusion of tidelands whose sole agricultural activity is aquaculture from eligibility; and

- directs the Department of Revenue to develop guidance, in consultation with stakeholders, on the eligibility requirements for current use valuation to the land underlying the residential structure that is contiguous or on and integral to current use classified agricultural lands.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available. New fiscal note requested on February 14, 2013.

Effective Date of Substitute Bill: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) Smaller farms are the fastest growing sector of farming, and this growth has been reflected in Thurston County. Small farms are participating in programs that provide fresh produce to local schools and food banks, as well as provide local, sustainable food to the community. The biggest challenge to farming is financial. The Legislature has prioritized preserving farm land in the state, but if farms cannot stay in business, then it is in vain. Allowing smaller farms to be eligible for the home site current use valuation is about fairness. Farms under 20 acres should not be treated differently than those 20 acres and larger. Small farms benefit their communities, and one acre of land being taxed at fair market value is a huge burden that is better distributed to the taxing district. Tax shifts happen all of the time. Passing this bill will go a long way to show our small farmers how much we appreciate their work.

(With concerns) Growth management is supposed to support farming. A tax shift puts rural and urban counties at odds with each other. Without additional requirements in place, there may be unintended consequences of home sites being eligible for current use that are not meant to benefit from this bill. Aquaculture should not be categorically excluded from eligibility the home site exemption.

(Opposed) None.
