Background: Fees charged for licensing of health care professionals cannot exceed the cost to the Department of Health for the licensing activities and can include the costs of inspections.

The University of Washington (UW) currently provides online access to selected vital clinical resources, medical journals, decision support tools, and evidence-based reviews of procedures, drugs, and devices to certain health professions. The professions include physicians and physician assistants, osteopathic physicians and osteopathic physician assistants, naturopaths, podiatrists, chiropractors, psychologists, registered nurses, optometrists, mental health counselors, massage therapists, clinical social workers, midwives, marriage and family therapists, and east Asian medicine practitioners.

This service is provided through the health sciences library. UW provides an annual accounting of the use of the funds transferred for this purpose and lists the categories of health professionals using these services. This information is made available to the health care committees of the Legislature.

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

Health professionals' license fees include up to an additional $25 to pay for this service.

Summary of Engrossed Bill: Occupational therapists, occupational therapy assistants, dietitians, nutritionists, and speech-language pathologists are added to the list of health care professionals who can have online access to research resources through the health sciences library at UW. The license fees for these additional health care professionals can include up to an additional $25 for this purpose. All other health care professionals who choose to access resources through the health sciences library at UW may pay the same additional fee at point of licensure.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Committee/Commission/Task Force Created: No.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony: PRO: Having access to specialized resources and evidence-based studies will enhance this profession's credibility with other health care professionals and enhance the level of care available to patients.
