READ FIRST TIME 03/01/13.

- AN ACT Relating to K-12 professional development for teachers and principals; adding a new section to chapter 28B.20 RCW; and creating
- 3 new sections.
- 4 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:
- 5 NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature finds that Washington educators possess great skills and knowledge about both subject matter 6 content and instructional pedagogy, and that sharing this knowledge with other educators benefits the entire educational system. 8 9 quality of any professional development is enhanced by drawing from 10 experts in the field with deep understanding of the profession. 11 However, the legislature finds that little data is available regarding the quality, quantity, or effectiveness of professional development 12 13 across school districts, and that a better understanding of best 14 practices would be useful to share with teachers and principals statewide. 15
- 16 (2) The legislature further finds that technology provides 17 increasing opportunities for educators across Washington state to 18 access professional development regardless of the time of year, time of 19 day, or geographic location, as well as share best practices, experiences, and skills with others. The legislature recognizes that 1 2 online professional development does not replace in-person, face-toface dialogue among educators. National standards for professional 3 development emphasize the creation of professional learning communities 4 where educators come together to analyze data, set goals, coach one 5 6 another, and continuously improve their practice. However, the power 7 and reach of the internet to provide information, resources, videos, 8 and forums for discussion should be harnessed so that all teachers and principals in all districts within the state have free, open access to 9 high quality, robust, and relevant professional development focused on 10 11 improving instruction and instructional practices. Specialized 12 professional development for principals should include instructional 13 and noninstructional modules such as financial and building management, evaluation methodologies, team building, and community relations, among 14 15 other topics.

(3) Therefore it is the legislature's intent to create a dynamic, real-time, and interactive online professional development system to augment the current system. The online professional development system will be designed, managed, and implemented by Washington educators.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 28B.20 RCW to read as follows:

- (1) Subject to funds appropriated specifically for this purpose, the Washington K-12 online professional development project is established. The purpose of the project is to make online professional development modules for K-12 teachers and principals available on demand and at no cost to any educator who chooses to use them.
- (2) The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall develop a request for proposals and select through a competitive process an applicant to serve as the contracted facilitator and administrator for the Washington K-12 online professional development project. School districts, educational service districts, institutions of higher education, and public or private entities or organizations may apply. The facilitator must:
- (a) Appoint and convene a steering committee of K-12 educators that shall be responsible for the overall design and structure of the project, identifying the topics for the online professional development

- (b) Oversee and provide support for creation of the professional development modules by K-12 educators;
- 5 (c) Provide necessary technical support and infrastructure for the 6 project; and
 - (d) Actively seek public-private partnerships in the development and implementation of the project.
 - (3) The professional development modules for the project must incorporate a variety of media, including demonstration videos, links to research and resources, webinars, and discussion forums. The project must include modules that incorporate hybrid learning through a combination of online and face-to-face collegial interaction among educators. The project must also provide for data collection on usage and customer feedback.
- 16 (4) The professional development modules must cover a range of topics, including but not limited to:
- 18 (a) Academic content that is aligned with and supports the common core state standards;
- 20 (b) Strategies for improving instructional practice, pedagogy, and classroom management;
 - (c) Strategies for closing the educational opportunity gap and providing specialized instruction for low-achieving students, English language learners, and students in special education; and
- 25 (d) Topics of particular interest to principals, such as effective 26 leadership, managing people and resources, and community and parent 27 involvement.
- NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The steering committee for the Washington K-12 online professional development project must submit a status report to the education committees of the legislature by December 1, 2015. At a minimum, the report must address the following topics:
- 32 (1) Data on usage of the professional development modules by teachers and principals;
- 34 (2) Customer feedback on the usefulness of the modules and how to 35 improve the system;

(5) Recommendations for how teachers may combine and document successful completion of professional development modules so that the modules may be considered approved in-service training for purposes of the statewide salary allocation schedule.

7 Sec. 4. The joint legislative audit and review NEW SECTION. committee must conduct an analysis of K-12 professional development for 8 9 teachers and principals. The purpose of the analysis is to improve the 10 baseline understanding of policymakers regarding the level of public 11 school resources currently expended to support professional 12 development, the sources of funds, the type and content of professional 13 development purchased, and the extent that professional development is based on individual preference, professional growth plans, school 14 instructional teams, or district priorities. For the purposes of the 15 16 analysis, "professional development" includes both traditional forms such as seminars, conferences, courses, or training sessions and 17 18 nontraditional, job-embedded forms such as dedicated time for instructional teams to examine student data, coaching and mentoring, 19 20 and professional learning communities. In the analysis, the committee 21 must use both qualitative and quantitative methods, access statewide 22 data to the extent available and informative, and select a sample of 23 school districts for more detailed review. The analysis must be 24 submitted to the legislature by December 1, 2014.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. If specific funding for the purposes of sections 2 and 3 of this act, referencing sections 2 and 3 of this act by bill or chapter number and section number, is not provided by June 30, 2013, in the omnibus appropriations act, sections 2 and 3 of this act are null and void.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. If specific funding for the purposes of section 4 of this act, referencing section 4 of this act by bill or chapter number and section number, is not provided by June 30, 2013, in the omnibus appropriations act, section 4 of this act is null and void.
