

HB 2525 - DIGEST

Finds that, when a statute is enacted the provisions of the law become effective before local governments can update their comprehensive plans and development regulations.

States that local jurisdictions: (1) Are not in violation of the growth management act where it complies with the Revised Code of Washington in advance of the comprehensive plan updates set out within the act; and

(2) May not prevent what the Revised Code of Washington authorizes just because the comprehensive plan has not been updated.
