Background:

The Department of Veterans Affairs (DVA) is a state agency created in 1975. The powers and duties of the DVA include cooperating with local governments and the federal government, particularly regarding participation in federal grants-in-aid programs relating to veterans and veterans affairs. The DVA provides many services to veterans and their families, including medical care, assistance with claims for benefits, estate management, counseling, and financial assistance. The DVA assists veterans with education, training, and employment.

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

The position of military spouse liaison (liaison) is created within the DVA. The duties of the liaison include, but are not limited to:

- conducting outreach to and advocating on behalf of military spouses in Washington;
- providing assistance and information to military spouses seeking professional licenses and credentials or other employment in Washington; and
- researching issues facing military spouses and creating informational materials to assist military spouses and their families.

The liaison is encouraged to periodically report on the work of the liaison to the relevant committees of the Legislature and participate in policy development related to military spouses.

Substitute Bill Compared to Original Bill:

The substitute bill adds a new section containing legislative findings and intent.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date of Substitute Bill: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) Military spouses face many difficulties as spouses of military members. Military spouses who are professionals have a lot to offer the State of Washington and they face difficulty in obtaining professional licenses due to bureaucracy. This bill will help military families and it will help the state receive the services of professionals transitioning into Washington. The purpose of the liaison would be to help spouses shorten and streamline the process of transferring their professional licenses to Washington and begin working in their fields. The position will provide consultation and services to military spouses by assisting spouses seeking professional licenses, collaborating with family readiness groups, coordinating with other groups assisting military spouses, and connecting spouses to employment programs they may need including apprenticeships and other employment opportunities.

Every state has different rules, laws, and organizations and much of the knowledge is passed around informally. The amount of information is overwhelming. Having a single point of contact in the state will save a lot of time and stress for a family moving to a new state.

Providing support to military spouses regarding professional licensing is critically important. Military spouses have professional licenses in higher numbers than the general population. Obtaining a license in a new state is costly and time consuming. This bill provides near-term assistance that spouses and families need.

(Opposed) None.
