SENATE COMMITTEE ON EARLY LEARNING & K-12 EDUCATION

Staff: Benjamin Omdal (786-7442)

Background: State Board of Education. The 16-member State Board of Education (SBE) is comprised of five members elected by geographic regions by school board directors, one member elected by private school directors, seven members appointed by the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and two non-voting student members selected in a manner determined by the SBE.

The SBE has various duties and powers prescribed in statute, including:

- providing advocacy and strategic oversight of public education;

- establishing high school graduation requirements or equivalencies;
- identifying scores students must meet to achieve standards on statewide assessments; and
- approving and accrediting private schools according to requirements established by the SBE.

The elections of the SBE members by school directors and private school board members, including duties pertaining to the calling of elections, are conducted by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) in accordance with statutory requirements and rules adopted by OSPI.

Washington State School Directors' Association. WSSDA is comprised of all 1477 school board members from Washington's 295 public school districts. WSSDA is charged with coordinating policymaking, control, and management of the state's school districts. WSSDA provides materials and educational services to its members, including model policies and procedures.

Educational Service Districts. There are nine regional ESDs in the state. Each is governed by a board consisting of seven to nine members elected by the school directors of the ESD. ESDs' responsibilities include providing cooperative, administrative, and informational services to and on behalf of local school districts, and assisting the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the SBE in the performance of their duties.

ESDs provide a variety of services, including back office administrative support, fiscal support, technology services, special education, early childhood education, professional development, and other instructional and non-instructional programs.

The elections of the Educational Service District (ESD) board members by school directors, including duties pertaining to the calling of elections, are conducted by OSPI in accordance with statutory requirements and rules adopted by OSPI. The tallying of votes cast in the ESD board member elections is conducted by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and a three-person election board appointed by the Superintendent. If there are more than three vacancies in a seven-member board, or four vacancies in a nine-member board, the Superintendent must appoint members so that a quorum is serving on the applicable board.

Summary of Bill: The duty of OSPI to conduct the elections of SBE members by school directors and private school board members, including the calling of elections, is transferred to WSSDA. WSSDA is directed to adopt related procedures for the elections.

The duty of OSPI to conduct the elections of the ESD board members by school directors is transferred to WSSDA, and the responsibility for the calling of elections is transferred from the Superintendent of Public Instruction to the executive director of WSSDA. WSSDA is directed to adopt related procedures for the elections and the executive director of WSSDA is made responsible for assisting with the count and appointing of a three-person election board to tally votes cast in the ESD board member elections.

Other related duties pertaining to the ESDs are also transferred from OSPI to WSSDA. In the event there are more than three vacancies in a seven-member board, or four vacancies in a nine-member board, the WSSDA president, instead of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, must appoint members so that a quorum is serving on the applicable board.

Provisions governing the general authority of WSSDA are modified to expressly provide that the WSSDA is empowered to prepare and adopt materials for the election of SBE members and for the ESD elections.
