EFFECT: Replaces prioritization of release dates in accordance with the internal behavioral management infraction system. Restores current law for:

- Requirements on when a juvenile can be transitioned to a community facility, and that the juvenile must have served at least 10 percent and in no case less than 30 days at a juvenile rehabilitation facility before being transferred.
- Law enforcement must be notified before a juvenile is placed in a community facility or community transition services.
- Requires community facilities to provide notice to the juvenile's school or employer of their offense.

- Replaces serious violent offenses with only violent offenses.
