Background:

State Requirements for Lodging Accommodations.

Hotels.

In state law "hotel" is defined and construed to mean any building held out to the public to be an inn, hotel, or public lodging house or place where sleeping accommodations, whether with or without meals, or the facilities for preparing the same, are furnished for hire to transient guests, in which three or more rooms are used for the accommodation of such guests. In addition,

"transient accommodation" is defined as any facility such as a hotel, motel, condominium, resort, or any other facility or place offering three or more lodging units to travelers and transient guests. Persons operating transient accommodations must obtain an annual operating license from the Department of Health and meet certain safety and health regulations.

Short-Term Rentals.

"Short-term rental" means a lodging use, that is not a hotel, motel, or bed and breakfast, in which a dwelling unit, or portion thereof, is offered or provided to a guest by a short-term rental operator for a fee for fewer than 30 consecutive nights. Short-term rental operators are required to meet certain safety requirements including placement of carbon monoxide alarms, displaying emergency contact information, and posting fire exits and escapes, along with maximum occupancy limits. In addition, short-term rental platforms that provide a means through which an operator offers a short-term rental have the following duties for short-term rental operators who use the platform:

- inform all operators to collect and remit all applicable taxes;
- inform operators of the short-term rental safety requirements; and
- provide operators with written notice that the operator's personal insurance policy that covers their dwelling unit may not provide liability protection, defense costs, or first party coverage when their property is used for short-term rental stays.

Federal Trade Commission's Rule on Unfair and Deceptive Fees.

In December 2024, the Federal Trade Commission published a new rule titled "Rule on Unfair and Deceptive Fees" that is effective May 12, 2025. This rule prohibits short-term lodging entities, defined to include hotels, motels, inns, short-term rentals, vacation rentals, or other places of lodging, to offer, display, or advertise any price of a good or service without clearly and conspicuously disclosing the total price. The total price means the maximum total of all fees or charges a consumer must pay for any good or service and any mandatory ancillary good or service, except that government charges, shipping charges, and fees or charges for any optional ancillary good or service may be excluded. The rule also makes it an unfair and deceptive practice to misrepresent any fee or charge, including the nature, purpose, amount, or refundability of any fee or charge, and the identity of the good or service for which the fee or charge is imposed. The rule provides that it will not be construed as superseding, altering, or affecting any state statute relating to unfair and deceptive fees or charges, except to the extent the state statute is inconsistent. A state statute is not considered inconsistent if it provides greater protection for consumers.

Summary of Bill:

Hotels and short-term rentals must disclose all fees required to reserve a stay in the advertised, displayed, or offered rate, excluding government taxes and fees. Government taxes and fees must be included in the total price before a guest reserves the stay. A person who knows or should have known that he or she has advertised, displayed, or offered a rate in violation of this requirement may be subject to a civil penalty of $10,000 per violation, to be enforced by a city attorney, county prosecuting attorney, or the attorney general.

Appropriation: None.
