

WAC 388-280-0050 How long can I receive repatriation assistance?

- (1) If you are mentally ill, you receive temporary care until you:
 - (a) Can be released to the care of a relative or state agency; or
 - (b) Are discharged or granted release from hospitalization.
- (2) If you are not mentally ill, you may receive repatriation assistance up to twelve months as follows:
 - (a) "Temporary assistance" meaning repatriation assistance provided during the first ninety days after you return to the United States.
 - (b) "Extended assistance" meaning repatriation assistance provided for up to nine months after the end of your temporary assistance. We must have approval in advance from HHS, so you must ask us to apply for extended assistance while receiving temporary assistance and be:
 - (i) Ineligible for any other assistance program; and
 - (ii) Unable to support or care for yourself due to age, illness, or lack of job skills.
