

WAC 388-112A-0370 What are the requirements for using basic training to meet the specialty training requirements? When basic training is used to meet the specialty training requirements:

(1) The curriculum for specialty training must include the department developed competencies and learning objectives as described in WAC 388-112A-0430, 388-112A-0440, or 388-112A-0450. Homes or providers may enhance the specialty training component by adding additional competencies, learning objectives, content, or activities. If the department approves the enhancements and an increased number of training hours, the worker's training hours will apply to the seventy-hour training requirement.

(2) Long-term care workers must pass the department competency test described in WAC 388-112A-0910 to meet the applicable licensing requirements for adult family homes, enhanced services facilities, and assisted living facilities for all specialty training.
