

WAC 388-829A-310 What if the alternative living provider no longer wants to provide services to a client? When an alternative living provider no longer wants to provide services to a client, the provider must:

- (1) Give at least two weeks notice to:
 - (a) The client;
 - (b) The client's legal representative; and
 - (c) DDD.

(2) If an emergency occurs and services must be terminated immediately, the provider must give immediate notice to DDD, the client and the client's representative.
