EXECUTIVE ORDER
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

[October 31, 2008]

EXECUTIVE ORDER 08-04

ADMINISTRATION OF VOLUME CAP AUTHORIZED UNDER THE HOUSING AND ECONOMIC RECOVERY ACT OF 2008

WHEREAS, Chapter 39.86 RCW establishes the state of Washington's method for allocating the bond volume cap limit on federally tax-exempt private activity bonds as required by the Internal Revenue Code (Code) and the Tax Reform Act of 1986; and

WHEREAS, Chapter 39.86 RCW specifies that the state's volume cap will be divided among several categories of private activity projects according to specific percentages; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 (Act), which was passed by Congress and signed by the President on July 30, 2008, allows a one-time, temporary increase in the national bond volume cap. The increase became available immediately upon the President signing the bill and must either be allocated and used prior to the end of the 2008 calendar year; or, once allocated and not used, carried forward prior to the end of the 2008 calendar year for use in 2009 or 2010. The new cap authorized under the Act is to be used for Housing category projects only; and

WHEREAS, Chapter 39.86 RCW does not address cap allocation awarded to the state at any other time than in the regular annual allocation at the beginning of the calendar year nor does it address the allocation of cap awarded by federal law for a specific purpose; and

WHEREAS, Chapter 39.86.160 authorizes the Governor to establish by executive order an alternative system to allocate state volume cap if federal legislation is passed that affects the state volume cap when the state Legislature is not in session, taking into consideration the requirements of federal law, the policy choices expressed in state law, and the projected needs of issuers; and

WHEREAS, it is in the best interests of the residents of the state of Washington to allocate and use the additional volume cap awarded under the Act and designated for Housing prior to the end of the 2008 calendar year; or, to allocate and carry-forward the volume cap for use in future years prior to the end of 2008.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Christine O. Gregoire, Governor of the state of Washington, do hereby order as follows:

1. The Department of Community, Trade and Economic Development shall allocate the additional cap authorized under the Act to the Housing Finance Commission (Commission) and other issuing authorities in accordance with the procedures outlined in RCW 43.180.200(5) for the allocation of volume cap for housing purposes with the following changes:

a. The February 1 date for awarding the preliminary allocations will be changed to October 1 only for the purposes of allocating the additional cap authorized by the Act.

b. The June 1 date for issuing authorities other than the Commission to confirm their intent to issue a bond by the December 15 issuance deadline will be changed to December 1 only for the purposes of allocating the additional cap authorized by the Act.

c. Any portion of the additional cap authorized by the Act that is unused in 2008 and eligible for carryforward under the Code shall be carried forward by the Commission. The Commission's initial 2009 allocation shall be modified by any carryforward of cap authorized under the Act as permitted under RCW 39.86.120(2) only to the extent necessary to ensure that a 20-percent portion of the additional cap authorized by the Act is made available for use by local housing authorities.

d. No allocations awarded to the Commission under this order shall limit the Commission's authority to assign a portion of its allocation to other issuing authorities as described in RCW 43.180.200 (5)(c).

2. The allocation of the additional cap authorized by the Act according to the provisions of this Executive Order shall be effective until (a) all the additional cap authorized by the Act has been allocated and used, or (b) this Executive Order is rescinded.

3. This Executive Order supersedes Executive Orders 86-06 and 86-07, which are hereby rescinded, and will take effect immediately.

Signed and sealed with the official seal of the state of Washington on the 31st day of October, 2008, at Olympia, Washington.

1. Logo Cards. This change will restore the ability for house-banked card rooms to use nonlogo cards in their non-house-banked card games. The ability was inadvertently removed during the plain talk rewrite of our rules manual, amending WAC 230-15-115. CR-101 WSR 08-22-055, filed November 3, 2008.

2. Fund-raising Events: This change will restore the ability for cash prizes to be awarded at fund-raising events. The ability was inadvertently removed during the plain talk rewrite of our rules manual, amending WAC 230-09-131. CR-101 WSR 08-22-056, filed November 3, 2008.

3. Applicants for a Manufacturer's License: This change will clarify that applicants for a manufacturer's license are required to demonstrate they are able to comply with the manufacturing and quality control restrictions imposed on authorized gambling equipment. The licensing process may include an on-site review of their manufacturing equipment. The requirement was inadvertently removed during the plain talk rewrite of our rules manual, amending WAC 230-03-185. CR-101 WSR 08-22-058, filed November 3, 2008.

DEPARTMENT OF ECOLOGY
 [Filed November 19, 2008, 11:05 a.m.]

"Alternatives to Deca-BDE in Televisions, Computers, and Furniture" is now available for public comment. Comments are due no later than 5:00 p.m., December 17, 2008.

To download a copy of the report visit <http://www.ecy.wa.gov/biblio/0807062.html>. For a hard copy of the report contact Kathy Vermillion at (360) 407-6916. Send your comments to Carol Kraege, P.O. Box 47600, Olympia, WA 98504-7600, or ckra461@ecy.wa.gov.

The departments of ecology (ecology) and health (DOH) completed this report to identify and assess the availability of safer and technically feasible alternatives to the flame retardant Deca-BDE for use in electronic enclosures of TVs and computers and in residential upholstered furniture. The report documents the alternatives assessment conducted by the agencies. This report was written to fulfill the requirements of chapter 70.76 RCW, Polybrominated diphenyl ethers—Flame retardants, signed into law by Governor Gregoire in 2007.

Conclusions: Safer, technically feasible alternatives to the use of Deca-BDE in electronic enclosures of TVs and computers and in residential upholstered furniture are available and meet applicable fire safety standards. As a result of these findings chapter 70.76 RCW requires that the restrictions on the use of Deca-BDE in the following products will take effect on January 1, 2011: TVs and computers and residential upholstered furniture.

Requirements in the Law: Chapter 70.76 RCW restricts the manufacture, sale and distribution of products containing a type of chemical flame retardant called PBDEs (polybrominated diphenyl ethers). The three types of PBDEs used in consumer products are Penta-BDE, Octa-BDE and Deca-BDE. The prohibition became effective for all products containing Penta-BDE and Octa-BDE, and for mattresses containing Deca-BDE in January 2008.

Use of Deca-BDE will be prohibited in electronic enclosures of TVs and computers and in residential upholstered furniture two years after ecology and DOH jointly find that less toxic, technically feasible alternative flame retardants are available. Ecology and DOH have made this finding. Having done so, chapter 70.76 RCW requires that a committee of fire safety experts, appointed by the governor and convened by ecology, determine if the identified alternatives meet applicable fire safety standards. The fire safety committee met on November 7, 2008, and found that the identified alternatives meet applicable fire safety standards.

Summary of the Report:

TVs and Computers: After reviewing recent studies, reports and other information, ecology and DOH narrowed their analysis to two possible phosphate-based flame retardants for final consideration: Resorcinol bisdiphenyl phosphate (RDP) and triphenyl phosphate (TPP). TPP was eliminated due to concerns related to its aquatic toxicity.

Rating of the flammability of plastic enclosures is a voluntary standard identified by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in conjunction with the Underwriter's Laboratory (UL) which defines the specific method. The agencies presented information to the fire safety committee on the performance of RDP compared with Deca-BDE when used in electronic enclosures. RDP performs as well as Deca-BDE, although a different type of plastic has to be used. Chapter 70.76 RCW requires the fire safety committee to vote on whether or not the alternative identified by the agencies meets applicable fire safety standards. The committee unanimously found that RDP meets applicable fire safety standards.

Residential Upholstered Furniture: For residential upholstered furniture, ecology and DOH relied on information from the consumer product safety commission (CPSC) indicating the availability of furniture design options that do not require the addition of chemical flame retardants. Ecology and DOH decided that achieving fire safety by redesign without the use of flame retardants is the best possible way to replace Deca-BDE. Under the CPSC's proposed flammability standard for residential upholstered furniture, fire safety can be achieved without the use of flame retardants. For example, many natural cover materials or inherently flame retardant internal barrier materials, similar to what is currently used in mattresses, can be used. Although the CPSC flammability standard has not been finalized, it is expected that design options that preclude the use of Deca-BDE will be available to meet any additional requirements in a final standard. The fire safety committee unanimously found that existing nonchemical design options meet applicable fire safety standards.

Report Findings: Ecology and DOH found that safer, technically feasible alternatives to Deca-BDE are available for use in TVs and computers and in residential upholstered furniture.

The Washington state fire marshal determined that these identified alternatives meet applicable fire safety standards.
