DEPARTMENT OF ECOLOGY
[Filed January 18, 2018, 11:41 a.m.]

Ecology Policy on the Marking of Original Equipment Service Contract Brakes

In 2010, Washington passed the better brakes law restricting the use of toxic materials in motor vehicle brake friction materials (also known as brake pads and shoes) in Washington state. This law restricted the use of lead, asbestos, and several heavy metals beginning in 2015 with a copper phase out by 2025. According to RCW 70.285.030 (2)-(3), vehicle brake pads manufactured after 2021 must contain less than five percent copper and must contain less than 0.5 percent copper by 2025.

There are several exemptions under the better brakes law, including a narrow exemption for brake friction materials manufactured as part of an original equipment service contract (OESC) parts. WAC 173- 901-040 defines OESC parts as brake friction material that:

"(a) Is provided as service parts originally designed for and using the same brake friction material formulation sold with a new motor vehicle. If there are any changes to the design of the service part's brake friction formulation, the product is no longer brake fiction material manufactured as part of an original equipment service contract; and

(b) Is manufactured as part of a contract between a vehicle manufacturer and a brake friction material manufacturer that requires the brake friction material manufacturer to provide brakes with the identical brake friction material formulation to those that originally came with a new motor vehicle. The brake friction material manufacturer may only sell these parts directly to the other party to the contract, the vehicle manufacturer."

OESC parts are only exempted from those constituent limits that come into effect after the date of manufacture of the vehicle for which the part is made as specified in RCW 70.285.030 (7)-(9). These sections state that OESC parts are subject to the constituent limits that are or were in effect during manufacture of the vehicle, and are subject to certification requirements for those limits. This means manufacturers of OESC parts for vehicles manufactured after January 1, 2015 (the date on which the law's limits on lead, asbestos, and several heavy metals went into effect), are required to test their products and submit signed self-certification documents to the Washington department of ecology (ecology). In addition to these requirements, manufacturers claiming this exemption must also report the vehicle for which the parts were manufactured with their signed self-certification documents to ecology. The certification process for OESC parts is outlined in WAC 173-901-150.

When ecology adopted the better brakes regulations, WAC 173-901-150 (4)(b)(ii) directed manufacturers to mark all OESC parts with an "X" or "WX." After a review of the current business practices and technical review, ecology determined that this marking is not necessary to determine compliance with the copper phase out requirements. However, OESC manufacturers still must comply with the general better brakes regulations, which require that brake friction materials' copper content to be marked with an "A" or "B" or "N" marking. The following table illustrates the allowed markings under this policy:

OESC exemption claimed based on date of manufacture of the vehicle:	Markings allowed under this policy
Brake friction material manufactured as part of an original equipment service contract for vehicles manufactured prior to January 1, 2015	X or WX
Brake friction material manufactured as part of an original equipment service contract for vehicles manufactured prior to January 1, 2021 (but after 2014)	X, WX, A, B, or N

OESC exemption claimed based on date of manufacture of the vehicle:	Markings allowed under this policy
Brake friction material manufactured as part of an original equipment service contract for vehicles manufactured prior to January 1, 2025 (but after 2020)	X, WX, B or N
Brake friction material manufactured as part of an original equipment service contract for vehicles manufactured after 2024	X, WX, or N

To implement this guidance, ecology will, within its enforcement discretion, refrain from enforcing the requirement of WAC 173-901-150 (4)(b)(ii) when manufacturers meet the requirements set forth in this policy. Specifically, a brake friction material manufacturer that certifies OESC parts in accordance with the requirements of Washington's better brakes law and marks them with the "A," "B," or "N" marking does not have to also mark the brakes with an "X" or a "WX."

For additional information, contact Mr. Sean D. Smith at sean.smith2@ecy.wa.gov. More information on the better brakes program can be found at <https://www.ecology.wa.gov/Waste-Toxics/Reducing-toxic-chemicals/Better-Brakes-law>.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Announcing the Issuance of the Modified Sand and Gravel General Permit

Permit: The Washington state department of ecology (ecology) has issued the modified sand and gravel national pollutant discharge elimination system and state waste discharge general permit (permit) on January 19, 2018. The effective date of the modified permit is April 1, 2018.

Purpose of the Permit: The purpose of the sand and gravel general permit is to control the discharge of pollutants from sand and gravel mining operations and related facilities into waters of the state. This general permit provides coverage for discharges of process water, stormwater, and mine dewatering water associated with sand and gravel operations, rock quarries and similar mining activities, including stockpiles of mined materials, concrete batch operations, and hot mix asphalt operations. The permit authorizes wastewater discharges to waters of the state of Washington subject to the permit conditions.

Modified Permit and Supporting Documents: The current permit was issued April 1, 2016, and appealed by the Washington Aggregate and Concrete Association (WACA). A settlement was reached on modified language for the permit in August 2017. The permit is being modified as a result of a settlement with WACA. The appeal resulted in modifications to:

- Correct an error in the pH monitoring frequency from monthly to quarterly for asphalt batch plants and asphalt recycling (S2, Table 2).
- Allow concrete recycling stockpiles in wellhead protection areas and within one hundred feet of wells with review and approval of a groundwater monitoring program (S8.F).
- Provide flexibility for restoration at portable sites (S12.B).

Public Notice Process and Comments: A public comment period was held for the modified language from September 26 through December 8, 2017. Ecology read and responded to all of the public comments received during this comment period. Ecology made revisions to the modified language in response to public comments.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE
[Filed January 23, 2018, 10:17 a.m.]

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION
WASHINGTON ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Washington attorney general routinely publishes notice of an opportunity to comment for opinion requests that we receive from the heads of state agencies, state legislators, and county prosecuting attorneys if we anticipate publishing a formal opinion in response to the request. We do so in order to provide members of the public with a chance to provide any legal analysis that they would like us to consider as we develop our opinion. In preparing any comments, please be aware that our opinion will provide our considered legal analysis of the question presented, and therefore comments that address the interpretation of the law are more helpful than comments that express an opinion as to what the law should be.

If you are interested in commenting on a request listed in this volume of the register, you should notify the attorney general's office of your interest by February 14, 2018. This is not the due date by which comments must be received, and we will consider any comments we receive before we complete our opinion. However, if you do not notify the attorney general's office of your interest in commenting on an opinion request by this date, the opinion may be issued before your comments have been received. You may notify the attorney general's office of your intention to comment by email to OpinionComments@atg.wa.gov or by writing to the Office of the Attorney General, Solicitor General Division, Attention Jeff Even, Deputy Solicitor General, P.O. Box 40100, Olympia, WA 98504-0100. When you notify the office of your intention to comment, you may be provided with a copy of the opinion request in which you are interested, information about the attorney general's opinion process, information on how to submit your comments, and a due date by which your comments must be received to ensure that they are fully considered.

If you are interested in receiving notice of new formal opinion requests via email, you may visit the attorney general's web site at <http://www.atg.wa.gov/ago%E2%80%9090opinions> for more information on how to join our AGO opinions list.

The attorney general's office seeks public input on the following opinion request(s):

Opinion Docket No. 18-01-03

Request by Jeff Morris, Representative District 40

QUESTION(S):

What duties of an electric utility to a customer-generator continue after the utility has interconnected systems beyond the 0.5% threshold set forth in RCW 80.60.020(1)(a)?

What is the source of a utility's authority to purchase power from a customer-generator? Does that authority derive exclusively from Chapter 80.60 RCW?
