OFFICE OF
FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT
[Filed October 4, 2018, 10:15 a.m.]

Notice of Substantial Development Dollar Threshold Adjustment

In accordance with RCW 90.58.030 (3)(e)(vii), the office of financial management (OFM) shall adjust the "substantial development" dollar threshold defined in the Shoreline Management Act every five years beginning July 1, 2018. The new dollar threshold shall be transmitted to the office of the code reviser for publication in the Washington State Register at least one month before the new threshold takes effect.

RCW 90.58.030 (3)(e)(vii), defines the construction of a dock, including a community dock, designed for pleasure craft only, for the private noncommercial use of the owner, lessee, or contract purchaser of single and multiple family residences. This exception applies if, in fresh waters, the fair market value of the dock does not exceed: (I) Twenty thousand dollars for docks that are constructed to replace existing docks, are of equal or lesser square footage than the existing dock being replaced, and are located in a county, city, or town that has updated its master program consistent with the master program guidelines in chapter 173-26 WAC as adopted in 2003; or (II) ten thousand dollars for all other docks constructed in fresh waters. However, if subsequent construction occurs within five years of completion of the prior construction, and the combined fair market value of the subsequent and prior construction exceeds the amount specified in either (e)(vii)(A) or (B) of this subsection (3), the subsequent construction shall be considered a substantial development for the purpose of this chapter. All dollar thresholds under (e)(vii)(B) of subsection (3) must be adjusted for inflation by the office of financial management every five years, beginning July 1, 2018, based upon changes in the consumer price index during that time period. "Consumer price index" means, for any calendar year, that year's annual average consumer price index, Seattle, Washington area, for urban wage earners and clerical workers, all items, compiled by the bureau of labor and statistics, United States department of labor. The office of financial management must calculate the new dollar thresholds, rounded to the nearest hundred dollar, and transmit them to the office of the code reviser for publication in the Washington State Register at least one month before the new dollar thresholds are to take effect.

In accordance with these requirements, OFM submits for publication the new dollar thresholds of twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars ($22,500) for docks defined under RCW 90.58.030 (3)(e)(vii)(I), and eleven thousand two hundred dollars ($11,200) for docks defined under RCW 90.58.030 (3)(e)(vii)(II). The new dollar threshold takes effect November 4, 2018.

The new threshold was calculated as follows. Over the five-year period from April 2013 to April 2018, the consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers for the Seattle-Tacoma-Bellevue, Washington, area as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, increased by 12.3 percent. This percentage applied to the prior threshold of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) results in an updated threshold of twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars ($22,500), and when applied to the prior threshold of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) results in and [an] updated threshold of eleven thousand two hundred dollars ($11,200).

If you have any questions or need further information, contact Robert Baker at 360-902-0605 or email Bob.Baker@ofm.wa.gov.

CHIEF JUSTICE

GR 9 COVER SHEET

Suggested Amendment to the CODE OF JUDICIAL CONDUCT

CJC 2.9 - Ex Parte Communications

Submitted by the Superior Court Judges' Association

A. Name of Proponent: Superior Court Judges' Association

B. Spokesperson: Judge Blaine Gibson, President
Superior Court Judges' Association

C. Purpose:

In July 2018, the State Judicial Ethics Committee rendered Advisory Opinion 18-04, which concludes that under Code of Judicial Conduct 2.9(C) ("CJC"), judges and court personnel under a judge's direction and control are prohibited from engaging in ex parte communications with a person accused of a crime before a first appearance unless otherwise authorized by law. This opinion prohibits pretrial dynamic risk assessments that include an interview of an unrepresented defendant and/or family members before his/her first appearance. The SCJA believes that such assessments are authorized by law. Ethics Op. 18-04 suggests the contrary and thus, has inhibited courts in those counties who have risk assessment interviews conducted by staff who are under the court's direction and control from relying on these assessments.¹

¹ Ethics Opinion 18-04 at 3. Staff who are not under the court's direction and control are outside the scope of the Code of Judicial Conduct and, thus, not subject to Ethics Op. 18-04.

For example, in juvenile courts throughout the state, juvenile probation counselors, typically under the court's direction and control, conduct risk assessment and screening interviews when a young person is brought to detention by law enforcement. The purpose of that risk assessment and screening interview is to further the strong policy of keeping alleged juvenile offenders in the community, reducing the use of detention and eliminating the racial disproportionality among detained youth. Ethics Op. 18-04 jeopardizes that policy by preventing a judge from obtaining initial screening information that informs the level of risk associated with release before the first scheduled court appearance or longer. If, for example, a juvenile is arrested and detained at 11:00 p.m. on a Friday night, he or she may not meet with an attorney until a first appearance hearing on Monday. If the court cannot rely on interview information obtained before that hearing to assess risk for release, the juvenile is likely to be detained until arraignment 72 hours later, when charges are filed and more information is available to the court. In other words, rather than a release determination that can be made by a judge after hours and on weekends based on a screening interview and risk assessment - potentially resulting in a release from detention early on Saturday — the juvenile could be detained five additional days until an arraignment and detention review can be conducted.² Similar delays in release may occur with at-risk youth detentions and adult criminal matters. This result directly contradicts the mandate to reduce the use of detention and to keep juveniles and adults in the community when safely possible.

² In King County, for example, after hours and on weekends a juvenile court duty judge reviews remotely a police report, risk assessment, and screening report and e-files an order initially releasing or detaining the youth.

Ethics Op. 18-04 confirms, however, that court staff can conduct risk assessments and screening interviews when authorized by law. For example, Administrative Rule for Courts of Limited Jurisdiction ("ARLJ") 11.1 allows for the creation of a "misdemeanor probation department" that "provides services designed to assist the court in the management of criminal justice and thereby aid in the preservation of public order and safety. This entity may consist of probation officers and probation clerks. The method of providing these services shall be established by the presiding judge of the local court to meet the specific needs of the court." Ethics Op. 18-04 recognizes that ARLJ 11.1 authorizes the creation of a probation department whose core services include "pre/post sentence investigations with face-to-face interviews; researching criminal history, social and economic needs, community resource needs, counseling/treatment needs, work history, family and employer support, and completing written pre/post-sentence reports."³ Accordingly, Ethics Op. 18-04 concludes that interviews by these probation staff are "authorized by law" and thereby an exception to the prohibition against ex parte communications.⁴

⁴ CJC 2.9 (A)(5), (C).

The SCJA firmly believes ex parte communications prohibited in Ethics Op. 18-04 are likewise expressly authorized by law. In the CJC, "law" is defined to "encompass court rules as well as statutes, constitutional provisions, and decisional law."⁵ Numerous statutes authorize courts to establish probation departments, and authorize probation counselors to conduct interviews, investigations, and risk assessments and to make recommendations to the court regarding detention and disposition, just like court rule ALRJ 11.1 specifically recognized by the Ethics Committee. Additionally, the Juvenile Justice Act of 1997 makes clear that the handling of juveniles in communities and commensurately with the criminal, culpability, and rehabilitation needs of the young person are foundational policies of the Act. An attached Appendix lists statutes and rules that illustrate the court's authority to rely on screening interviews conducted by staff under the court's direction and control to inform risk and needs assessments, placement, dispositional, and supervision decisions.

⁵ CJC, Terminology

By the Ethics Committee's own logic, these statutes, at a minimum, authorize the court to rely on ex parte communications conducted by probation and screening staff to inform detention and dispositional decisions. Accordingly, the SCJA respectfully submits that the Committee should withdraw Ethics Op. 18-04 or at a minimum clarify that CJC 2.9 does not prohibit such contacts because they are authorized by law.

In an abundance of caution, however, the SCJA further recommends an amendment to CJC 2.9, to eliminate confusion over a judge's ability to rely on ex parte communications conducted by persons ostensibly under the court's direction and control, but conducted to gather information to inform risk and needs assessments, detention and release, placement, disposition, and community supervision decisions. This amendment is most relevant to initial risk assessment and screening decisions, as a defendant/respondent is not represented by counsel at that time. In subsequent interviews, an individual has counsel and any information gathered is available to counsel, who is able to respond to any and all information presented to the court. In other contexts, however, for example a family law case in which the parties are unrepresented and the court appoints a GAL to assess a child custody decision, a question could arise as to the court's ability to rely on such an assessment. Accordingly, the SCJA asks that an amendment to CJC 2.9 be broad and explicit to eliminate all doubt that such communications are authorized by law in both criminal and civil matters, and they do not violate a judge's responsibility to refrain from ex parte communications.

D. Hearing: A hearing is not requested. SCJA representatives will make themselves available should the Court require a hearing.

E. Expedited Consideration: Expedited consideration is requested to provide courts immediate guidance with respect to these issues.

CODE OF JUDICIAL CONDUCT

RULE 2.9 Ex Parte Communications

(A) A judge shall not initiate, permit, or consider ex parte communications, or consider other communications made to the judge outside the presence of the parties or their lawyers, concerning a pending* or impending matter, *before that judge's court except as follows:

~~(1) When circumstances require it, ex parte communication for scheduling, administrative, or emergency purposes, which does not address substantive matters, or ex parte communication pursuant to a written policy or rule for a mental~~ ~~health court, drug court, or other therapeutic court, is permitted, provided:~~

~~(1) The following are permitted when circumstances require: ex parte communication for scheduling, administrative, or emergency purposes, which does not address substantive matters; ex parte communication pursuant to a written policy or rule for a mental health court, drug court, or other therapeutic court; and, in criminal and civil matters, ex parte communication for purposes of making decisions on matters such as an individual's risk and needs, pretrial release, bail, placement, dispositions, and supervision, provided:~~

~~(a) the judge reasonably believes that no party will gain a procedural, substantive, or tactical advantage as a result of the ex parte communication; and~~

~~(b) the judge makes provision promptly to notify all other parties of the substance of the ex parte communication, and gives the parties an opportunity to respond.~~

~~(2) A judge may obtain the written advice of a disinterested expert on the law applicable to a proceeding before the judge, if the judge affords the parties a reasonable opportunity to object and respond to the advice received.~~

~~(3) A judge may consult with court staff and court officials whose functions are to aid the judge in carrying out the judge's adjudicative responsibilities, or with other judges, provided the judge makes reasonable efforts to avoid receiving factual information that is not part of the record, and does not abrogate the responsibility personally to decide the matter.~~

~~(4) A judge may, with the consent of the parties, confer separately with the parties and their lawyers in an effort to settle matters pending before the judge.~~

~~(5) A judge may initiate, permit, or consider any ex parte communication when expressly authorized by law* to do so.~~

~~(B) If a judge inadvertently receives an unauthorized ex parte communication bearing upon the substance of a matter, the judge shall make provision promptly to notify the parties of the substance of the communication and provide the parties with an opportunity to respond.~~

~~(C) A judge shall not investigate facts in a matter pending or impending before that judge, and shall consider only the evidence presented and any facts that may properly be judicially noticed, unless expressly authorized by law.~~

~~(D) A judge shall make reasonable efforts, including providing appropriate supervision, to ensure that this Rule is not violated by court staff, court officials, and others subject to the judge's direction and control.~~

Comments

[1] To the extent reasonably possible, all parties or their lawyers shall be included in communications with a judge.

[2] Whenever the presence of a party or notice to a party is required by this Rule, it is the party's lawyer, or if the party is unrepresented, the party, who is to be present or to whom notice is to be given.

[3] The proscription against communications concerning a proceeding includes communications with lawyers, law teachers, and other persons who are not participants in the proceeding, except to the limited extent permitted by this Rule.

[4] A judge may initiate, permit, or consider ex parte communications expressly authorized by law, such as when serving on therapeutic or problem-solving courts; criminal and civil matters in juvenile and adult courts related to risk and needs assessment, pretrial release, bail, detention, placement, disposition, and supervision decisions; mental health courts, or drug courts. In this capacity, judges may assume a more interactive role with parties, treatment providers, probation officers, social workers, and others.

[5] A judge may consult on pending matters with other judges, or with retired judges who no longer practice law and are enrolled in a formal judicial mentoring program (such as the Washington Superior Court Judges' Association Mentor Judge Program). Such consultations must avoid ex parte discussions of a case with judges who have previously been disqualified from hearing the matter, and with judges or retired judges who have appellate jurisdiction over the matter.

[6] The prohibition against a judge investigating the facts in a matter extends to information available in all mediums, including electronic.

[7] A judge may consult ethics advisory committees, outside counsel, or legal experts concerning the judge's compliance with this Code. Such consultations are not subject to the restrictions of paragraph (A)(2).

DEPARTMENT OF ECOLOGY

[Filed October 24, 2018, 11:14 a.m.]

PUBLIC NOTICE

Announcing for Review and Comment:
Draft Aquatic Plant and Algae Management
General Permit Modification
Draft Aquatic Noxious Weed Management
General Permit Modification

Proposed Modified Permits: The Washington state department of ecology (ecology) proposes to modify two aquatic pesticide general permits:

- The Aquatic Plant and Algae Management General Permit (APAM permit).
- The Aquatic Noxious Weed Management General Permit (NOX permit).

At the request of permittees, ecology proposes to authorize the use of additional tools to control aquatic plants, algae, and noxious weeds. The tools include:

- Three herbicides.
- One algaecide.
- Two phosphorous inactivation products.
- Adjuvants registered by the Washington state department of agriculture (WSDA).

State and federal water quality regulations do not allow the discharge of pollutants to waters of the state without permit coverage. The chemicals allowed for use in the proposed permit modification are potential pollutants, and therefore require a discharge permit before application. Ecology issues general permits in place of a series of individual permits when the permitted activities are similar.

Purpose of the Permits: The APAM permit and NOX permit are both national pollutant discharge elimination system (NPDES) permits. The APAM permit regulates the use of herbicides, adjuvants, and phosphorous inactivation products for control of noxious weeds, native nuisance plants, algae, and phosphorous in surface waters of Washington state.

The NOX permit regulates the use of herbicides, adjuvants, and marker dyes to control Washington state listed noxious weeds and quarantine-listed weeds. It covers marine and freshwater applications that may indirectly enter surface waters of Washington.

Coverage under the NOX permit is available to WSDA, and individuals or entities contracting with WSDA as limited agents, for applications statewide.

Copies of the Draft Permits: Starting on November 7, 2018, the draft permits, fact sheets, and other supporting documents are available on the following web pages.

Documents related to the APAM permit: <https://Ecology.wa.gov/AquaticPlants>.

Documents related to the NOX permit: <https://Ecology.wa.gov/AquaticNoxiousWeeds>.

Additionally, you may request copies of documents from Stacey Callaway via email Stacey.Callaway@ecy.wa.gov or 360-407-7118.

Workshop and Public Hearing: The workshop will explain the proposed modifications to the permits and answer questions about the proposed modifications prior to the public hearing. The hearing will begin after the public workshop and will conclude when public testimony is complete.

During the hearing, the public may give oral testimony and written comments on the proposed modifications to the permits. Written comments will receive the same consideration as oral testimony. Only the portions of the permits revised during this permit modification are available for comment.

Monday, December 10, 2018, at 9:30 a.m., ecology is offering this hearing via webinar¹. To join the webinar, click on the following link for more information and instructions, <https://bit.ly/2NBjFXW>.

¹ Webinars are an online meeting forum that you can attend from any computer using internet access.

Monday, December 10, 2018, at 1:30 p.m., Washington State Department of Ecology, 300 Desmond Drive S.E., Lacey, WA 98504.

Submitting Written Comments: Ecology will accept written comments on the draft permit, fact sheet, and supporting documentation from November 7, 2018, until 11:59 p.m. on December 21, 2018. Ecology prefers you submit comments through the comment form on the permit web page. Comments should reference specific permit text when possible.

Submit comments:

- Online via the e-comment form <http://ws.ecology.commentinput.com/?id=7Y5ip>.
- By mail Stacey Callaway, Washington State Department of Ecology, P.O. Box 47696, Olympia, WA 98504-7696.

Issuing the Modified Permits: Ecology will make the final decision on the permit modifications after we consider all public comments. If public comments cause a substantial change in the permit conditions from the original draft permit modification, we may provide another public notice of draft and comment period. Ecology expects to issue the general permit modification in the spring of 2019.
