OFFICE OF

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

[Filed May 11, 2022, 3:48 p.m.]

Notice of Substantial Development Dollar Threshold Adjustment

In accordance with RCW 90.58.030 (3) (e), the office of financial management (OFM) shall adjust the "substantial development" dollar threshold defined in the Shoreline Management Act every five years beginning July 1, 2007. The new dollar threshold shall be transmitted to the office of the code reviser for publication in the Washington State Register at least one month before the new threshold takes effect.

RCW 90.58.030 (3) (e), a part of the Shoreline Management Act, defines a substantial development to include any development with a fair market value exceeding five thousand dollars. The statute requires OFM to adjust this dollar threshold for inflation every five years. The adjustment is to be based on changes in the consumer price index for the urban areas of Seattle, Washington, during that five-year period. The new dollar threshold shall be published in the state register at least one month before the new dollar threshold takes effect.

In accordance with these requirements, OFM submits for publication the new dollar threshold of $8,504. The new dollar threshold takes effect July 1, 2022.

The new threshold was calculated as follows. Over the five-year period from April 2017 to April 2022, the consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers for the Seattle-Tacoma-Bellevue, Washington, area as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, increased by 20.679 percent. This percentage applied to the prior threshold of $7,047 results in an updated threshold of $8,504.

DEPARTMENT OF ECOLOGY

[Filed May 13, 2022, 2:53 p.m.]

PUBLIC NOTICE

Announcing Ecology's Second Report on Safer Alternatives to Per- and Polyfluoroalkyl Substances (PFAS) in Food Packaging

RCW 70A.222.070 directs the department of ecology (ecology) to determine whether safer alternatives to PFAS currently exist for food packaging applications. Intentionally added PFAS will be banned from paper food packaging applications two years after ecology submits a report to the legislature that identifies safer alternatives for those specific types of paper food packaging.

To make the necessary determination, ecology conducted a second alternatives assessment for various food packaging items containing intentionally added PFAS. Following the Interstate Chemicals Clearinghouse (IC2) Alternatives Assessment Guide as required by statute, ecology assessed the hazard, exposure, and performance, as well as cost and availability of five food packaging applications (such as bags and closed containers). Ecology evaluated a variety of both chemical alternatives to PFAS as well as nonchemical options.

As directed by the statute, ecology not only evaluated the hazard of each alternative, but also assessed whether each alternative performed as well as the PFAS choice and whether the alternative was readily available, among other criteria. The Northeast Waste Management Officials' Association Interstate Chemicals Clearinghouse assembled a peer-review committee, which reviewed the alternatives assessment and made various recommendations to further strengthen the assessment.

To be considered a "safer alternative," the alternatives assessment must conclude that a non-PFAS option is less hazardous, is available in sufficient quantity and comparable in cost, and performs as well as or better than PFAS chemicals in a specific food packaging application. Non-PFAS options that fail to meet all of these criteria are not "safer alternatives" under the statute.

Based on the results of the alternatives assessment, ecology found safer alternatives for all the applications under assessment:

- Bags and sleeves: Densified paper and wax-coated options met the criteria for a safer alternative.
- Bowls: Clay-coated, polylactic acid-coated, polylactic acid foam, and reusable options met the criteria for safer alternatives.
- Flat serveware: Clay-coated, polylactic acid-coated, polylactic acid foam, and reusable options met the criteria for safer alternatives.
- Open-top containers: Clay-coated, densified paper, wax-coated, polylactic acid-coated, polylactic acid foam, aluminum, and reusable options met the criteria for a safer alternative.
- Closed containers: Clay-coated, polylactic acid-coated, polylactic acid foam, and aluminum options met the criteria for safer alternatives.

As specified in RCW 70A.222.070(1), PFAS-containing bags and sleeves, bowls, flat serveware, open-top containers, and closed containers may not be manufactured, sold, or distributed in Washington starting two years from the date ecology submits its report to the legislature containing the department's findings and feedback received from the peer review, or May 12, 2024.

Ecology continued the alternatives assessment process, as required by RCW 70A.222.070(5). The third assessment, which began in early 2022, will review other types of packaging where there is evidence of PFAS use (such as prepackaged microwaveable popcorn bags) to determine if PFAS-free alternatives are readily available, in sufficient quantity, comparable in price, with equivalent performance.
