EMERGENCY RULES
DEPARTMENT OF
FISH AND WILDLIFE

[Order 21-170—Filed September 1, 2021, 7:19 a.m., effective September 1, 2021]

Effective Date of Rule: September 1, 2021.

Purpose: The purpose of this emergency rule is to change the daily open period for the lands listed in this WAC and to create additional regulations that are needed to prevent wildfires on department lands in eastern Washington during the current period of very high and extreme fire danger. The new rule will help reduce the threat of wildfires on department lands in eastern Washington and provide protection of human health, safety, and wildlife habitat. Select water access areas listed in this rule within Columbia Basin and Chief Joseph Wildlife Areas are authorized for overnight use.

Citation of Rules Affected by this Order: Repealing WAC 220-500-04000F; and amending WAC 220-500-040.

Statutory Authority for Adoption: RCW 77.04.012, 77.04.020, 77.12.045, and 77.12.047.

Under RCW 34.05.350 the agency for good cause finds that immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule is necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety, or general welfare, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the public interest.

Reasons for this Finding: An emergency rule is necessary to protect department lands from imminent risk of wildfire damage during a very high fire danger period which is occurring currently. These additional prohibitions are needed immediately to protect humans, wildlife, and property.

Listed exceptions are based on the following rationales:

1. The Columbia Basin Wildlife Area is a fragmented landscape of unforested low-elevation shrubsteppe, irrigated agriculture, and dry-land wheat (harvest currently underway) with a relatively high degree of road access. Due to relatively flat topography and accessibility, wildfires in this area typically last hours, as opposed to days, and require less suppression resources. Water access sites proposed for exemption serve a high demand on large water bodies (Banks Lake, Pot-holes Reservoir) for recreational boating. Parking areas and access roads are generally well maintained, well delineated, and free of vegetation. Recreational value is high, and risk is relatively low. Further, compliance on Columbia Basin Wildlife Area during the COVID-19 shutdown was low, signs were ignored, and barriers were crossed. By allowing overnight use of some of these sites will reduce the number of violations across the wildlife area, make enforcement more manageable, and focus fire risk to more manageable areas as well.

2. Chief Joseph Wildlife Area has three sites with relatively low risk of wildfire and which support rafters who park overnight. Allowing these sites to remain open also helps with enforcement and reduces risk of violations across the wildlife area.

There is insufficient time to adopt permanent rules.
